HISTORIC TRAGEDY REVISITED - After 123 years, the Donner Party is in the news again, this time in the form of a dramatic play scheduled to be performed periodically from Feb. 28 through March 15 by the Professional Resident Theatre at University of California, Davis. Above, Donald West as Jacob Donner, left, discusses the merits of the old or the new wagon train route with his brother, played by Edward Holmes. The play is by Robert Murray, and recounts the hardships of families in the Donner Party as they cross the desert in 1846 and are trapped by early snow in what is now the Truckee-Donner Lake region at the foot of the Sierra.

"Donner" will be presented in repertory with "The Merchant of Venice" February 28 through March 15. Tickets may be obtained at Sears, Macy's and Greyhound agencies or by telephoning 916-752-1131.

Five To Seek Superior Court Seat

It appears that Nevada county, which has had only seven Superior Court judges since the office was formed in 1881, may have almost that many contenders for the post in 1970.

Five candidates signed declarations of intent to run for Superior Court judge before 5 p.m. Wednesday, the deadline for filing the preliminary intention to become a candidate for a judicial post in the June primary ballot.

Filing for the post in one of the counties of the state boasting of a minimum turnover of the judicial office, are Harry Wolters, Leo J. Todd, Dean G. Lawrence, William Hager, and Otis Babcock.

Judges Victor Montre and Verle Gray, incumbents of the Grass Valley and Nevada Judicial District courts respectively, may win their bids for re-election by a "shoe-in."

Judge Gray is the lone candidate for the Nevada City Court, Judge Montre and Hager, public defender, signed their intentions for the Grass Valley judgeship.

However, Hager, with an eye on the Superior Court bench, has said he does not plan to take out nomination papers for the Grass Valley Justice Court. He said he was unaware that Judge Montre would seek re-election when he signed his declaration of intent and does not chose to run against the judge.

Judge Fosten Wilson, incumbent, Schuyler W. Miles, and Arthur L. Kennerson have signed intentions to become candidates for judge of the Truckee Judicial District Court.

All candidates for judicial posts are required to sign declarations of intent prior to taking out nomination papers.

The real political pot began to bubble Tuesday, the first day judicial candidates and others seeking county and state elective offices can pay filing fees and take out nomination papers. They have until 5 p.m. March 20 to complete this task.

Election laws state that the first day for circulation of nomination papers is Feb. 23 (Monday). However, because Washington's birthday falls on Sunday, Monday is a holiday and the courthouse will be closed.

Landslide Victory For School Bond, 979-205

Voters in the Tahoe-Truckee Unified School District overwhelmingly approved a $1 million bond issue Tuesday to relieve overcrowded conditions in local schools.

Final totals were 979 yes to 205 no votes. Results by precinct were listed as follows: Donner Trail School 27 yes, 4 no; Truckee Administration Building, 260 yes, 44 no; Floriston, 26 yes, 0 no; Kings Beach, 154 yes, 75 no;

Tahoe City, 483 yes, 69 no; and absentees, 29 yes, 13 no.

A total of 1184 district residents voted in the election.

District voters were asked to approve an increase in the interest rate from five to seven per cent on $1 million in unsold school bonds. Funds from the bond sale at the higher interest rate will permit the construction of the new Rideout Elementary School three miles south of Tahoe City and an eight-classroom addition onto the Truckee Elementary School. These projects appear necessary to relieve a critical classroom shortage which has caused overcrowded conditions at Tahoe Lake School and Truckee Elementary.

According to John Corbin, superintendent of the school district, double class sessions were likely to be scheduled for next fall if the bond election failed.

The new Timberland School will have eight classrooms, a kindergarten room, an office unit, library, kitchen complex, regulation sized gym - multipurpose room with music and stage areas, and playgrounds and equipment, costing the district about $762,963.

Scheduled Air Service Soon For North Shore

TAHOE CITY - Scheduled airline service to Truckee-Tahoe Airport probably will be a reality within 90 days.

Examiner Robert Barnett of the California Public Utilities Commission heard testimony here last Friday from Holiday Airlines and many interested citizens of the area. He noted that "the testimony presented this morning is sufficient to warrant service to this area."

However, he took exception to Holiday's plan for tacking on a $7.62 fare from South Lake Tahoe Airport to the one in Truckee on flights originating from either Los Angeles-Burbank or from Oakland-San Jose.

Holiday proposes to offer scheduled airline service to the Truckee Airport on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. Most of the flights will stop at South Lake Tahoe Airport prior to continuing into Truckee. A few flights will be direct from either the Bay Area or Los Angeles. Proposed fares were listed as $67.50 round trip from Truckee to Los Angeles and $44.50 round trip from Oakland-San Jose.

Testimony to the commission was presented by many resort owners, airport personnel and interested citizens. Western Airlines is opposing the application because it feels sufficient service is provided through Reno.

Among those offering testimony as to the need for airline service were Placer County supervisor William Briner, a Tahoe City resort owner.

Also giving their opinions of the Holiday Airlines proposal were Hans Vonolde and Ray Huston of Squaw Valley. Both wanted to use the service as part of a complete ski-package deal for tourists. They would include lift and hotel prices in the package to encourage skiers during the slow mid-week period.

Betty Layton, manager of North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce, noted that the chamber recently passed a resolution in support of the Holiday application and that all members present at the meeting had signed it.

H. Peter Andersen, Jr., a San Francisco attorney representing General American Development Corp., said GA already uses Holiday crews on weekend flights to show prospective buyers the GA properties. He noted that GA supports the Holiday application.

Gordon Reddall, airport district manager, reported that this year the airport will extend its runway from 6,000 to 6,100 feet. He noted that the runway is equipped with night lights and that the Federal Aviation Agency has approved it for Electra service.

assistance to fund the proposed facility.

In an application to the Housing and Urban Development agency, the North Tahoe P.U.D. board, together with Supervisor William Briner, Assemblyman Eugene Chappie and Congressman Harold Johnson, asked for federal participation in the amount of $331,000 to construct 87,000 feet of sewage pipeline. After a turn-down by H.U.D., the group appealed the decision to George Romney, H.U.D. secretary, who said the application was rejected because the proposed sewer would be for collection lines which only serve individual homes. The federal government has already loaned more than $1 million for construction of an export and treatment plant for the area.

According to the engineers, Murray & McCormick of Tahoe City and Sacramento, a different procedure is now being followed whereby the construction bids will be taken before the district spreads the assessment and holds public hearings. A spokesman for Murray & McCormick also said they have met with several private citizens to discuss a new method of assessment, which generally equates one assessment to one residential lot, irrespective of individual lot sizes.

The new pipeline would provide service to some 1,100 lots now being serviced by individual septic tanks in North Tahoe P.U.D. sewer assessment districts 5 A and 5 B.

Announce Call For Bids On Martis Creek Dam Project

Bids for an estimated $4 million to $5 million construction contract for Martis Creek Dam will be opened April 21 in Washington, D.C., by the Army Corps of Engineers, according to an announcement by Sen. Alan Bible of Nevada.

Bible noted that the contract will cover construction of the earth-fill dam, spillways and outlets as part of the Truckee River Basin Flood Control Project.

"Martis Creek Reservoir, together with Truckee River Channel Improvements in Reno, will be an important unit of the comprehensive flood protection plan for the basin," Bible said.

Bible, who was successful earlier in securing funds to accelerate the project, was critical of last year's Nixon administration order that delayed the start of construction by several months.

"We have recent dramatic evidence of the value of upstream storage in preventing destructive floods in the Reno area," he said.

Bible, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, successfully backed a $750,000 appropriation last year to initiate Martis Creek Dam construction. He said he would seek an additional $2.4 million this year to keep work going.

The dam will be 113 feet high and 2,670 feet long with a reservoir capacity of 20,000 acre-feet. It will be located two miles above Martis Creek's confluence with the Truckee, about 32 miles southwest of Reno.

area," he said. "The Martis Creek unit can extend this flood control capability and save millions of dollars in damage."

Bible said the Army Engineers estimated that $1.7 million in damages from the 1963 Reno flood could have been reduced by half or more had Martis Creek Dam been operating then.

"I hope work can now go forward without further delays," he said.

Officer In Special Class

Traffic officer Robert Lehner of the Truckee Area California Highway Patrol completed an eight-day in-service refresher training class at the patrol's academy in Sacramento Feb. 11.

The training curriculum included 17 subjects, with emphasis on accident investigation, auto theft, civil disturbances, community relations, current law, dangerous drugs and drinking drivers.

The academy course supplements the patrol's year-around program of field training to update information and discuss problem areas.

Board OK's Swap

Placer County supervisors have given their approval to a proposed land exchange between the U. S. Forest Service and the Joerger estate in Martis Valley.

Supervisor William Briner noted that the USFS would trade 437 acres adjoining the Tahoe-Truckee Airport in Placer County to the Joerger estate in exchange for 417 acres along the Truckee River in Nevada County.

Should the deal be consummated, the USFS would gain an additional mile of river front adjoining the 1 1/2 mile stretch obtained previously from the San Francisco Flycasters Club.

Sierra Sun Observer

Ever wonder why you see a lot of youngsters around, and quite a few high school teenagers, but very few young men or women between, say, 18 to 30 years of age? Where to they go? And why? According to comments from teenagers about the subject there is definitely a strong feeling to "get away" as soon as possible after graduation from Tahoe-Truckee High School.

Many who do leave the area do so reluctantly because they love the beauty of nature in the Sierra. Growing up in the mountains, they claim, spoils you for life in the treeless cities.

Some flee the Truckee-Tahoe community to start a new life on a ranch somewhere, some travel to Canada, and still others make the major switch to city life.

Whatever their destination, it is away from "here." And the reasons given all sound painfully similar.

"What's there to do in Truckee?"

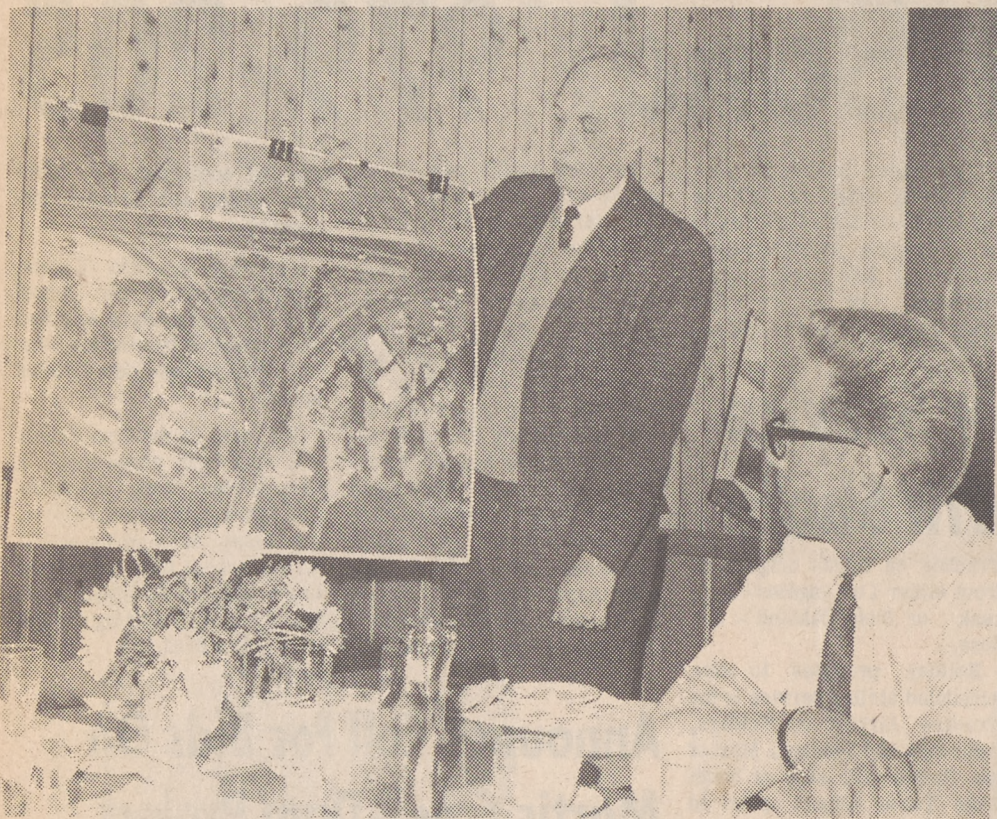

"My parents refuse to realize the world is a dynamic, changing thing."

"Everybody at the lake has a puritanical, old-fashioned, and small-town attitude about everything . . . morals, politics, religion, and things like that."

Sweeping generalities, to be sure, but still valid if viewed in the context of their young and different world.

But is their attitude unique to these mountain communities alone? No . . . they agree that kids they know who grew up in the city could hardly wait to escape to the quiet, sylvan peace awaiting them in the countryside.

Regardless of the reasons it still seems a shame to rear one's offspring in a rural town only to have them leave and be replaced by equally dissatisfied young people from the city.

MEANWHILE, BACK AT THE "Y" - Blair Geddes, engineer for California Division of Highways, visited Tahoe City again last week for further explanation of the division's plans to install a traffic control system at the "Y". Court Cases In Truckee

The following cases were heard and adjudicated by F. W. Wilson, judge of the Truckee Justice Court:

John Case of Truckee pleaded guilty to being drunk in a public place and was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail.

James Mora of Auburn was found guilty and fined $39 for excessive speed.

Alfred Wasthuber of San Francisco was fined for operating his vehicle without chains in a chain control zone.

John Whittenberg of Arizona was found guilty of being drunk in a public place. He was sentenced to serve three days in jail.

Douglas Carter of Olympic Valley was fined $14 for not having chains in a chain control area.

Kenneth Polman of Reno was fined $14 for speeding.

Herbert Merrill of Elk Grove was sentenced to serve two days in jail for being drunk in a public place.

It may be a sign of the times. If so this is a sad time.

Ray Carpenter, a veteran CHP officer and a good American family man, was murdered the other day while performing a routine task, simply checking a questionable driver.

In San Francisco, a police sergeant was killed by a bomb placed in his office window.

In almost every city in the country violent rioters clashed with law enforcement officers over the just and obvious decision reached in the famous Chicago Seven trial.

Relief recipients march and demand even more money and recognition.

War protesters and so-called civil rights advocates destroy property, attack and even kill officers.

Use of illegal drugs is getting more prevalent. Students, in many colleges and even high schools, are making ridiculous demands on their instructors and school administrators - and in some instances with success.

All this tends to convince us that the sign of the time is not good. In this country where we have the ballot box, courts and equal rights, where we have the highest standard of living and freedom of choice, it verges, we think, on anarchy. None of us surely does agree on all phases of our policies, but we should make an effort to abide by the rules set down by the majority and not join in a senseless revolution, apparently sponsored by a few malcontents and anti-Americans.

Those of us who detest the unfair and useless war in Vietnam should do all we can to see that it is ended, but breaking windows and assaulting officers, burning buildings and taking part in other foolish acts will not bring the war to an end. Only duly elected national officials can. So why not the ballot box.

Students, disgruntled with the schools are not forced to remain therein. Let them drop out and seek the way of life they want at their own expense and not be a continuing burden to the overtaxed taxpayer.

As a matter of fact most of our current problems and unrest could be solved with a return to constitutional government in which the majority rules instead of conforming with the violent minority or being apathetic. This violence, which seems to be gaining a strangle hold on the country, must be stopped. An officer should be assisted in the performance of his duty and not handicapped and cursed and even killed.

We feel that unless the current situation gets better soon, there will be a counter revolution with a return of the vigilante. Otherwise we must give in to the violators and accept the unavoidable consequences.

First Homes In South Not Second Ones Here

The U. S. government is interested in providing first homes in Alabama, not second homes at Lake Tahoe.

That's what Thomas D. McMahon, assistant planning director for Placer County, said to members of the North Tahoe Community Club when explaining why the general plan of Kings Beach will emphasize private development rather than redevelopment with federal support.

McMahon and planning director Richard Heikka appeared at the Kings Beach meeting to bring property owners up-to-date on revisions in the Kings Beach plan submitted by San Francisco planner George Gatter.

The plan will be presented March 2 at a public hearing before the county supervisors prior to adoption, possible that day.

Heikka said county investigations show that Kings Beach will grow tremendously in the future "and it might change our minds as to where we are heading."

He said that first figures on slower than normal growth probably reflected the building moratorium because of problems with pollution experienced by the North Tahoe Public Utility District.

McMahon pointed out that new county figures show only 2 per cent, or 22, of Kings Beach buildings are unsound and should be replaced.

He said 85 per cent are sound or deteriorating and need only some paint or a new roof.

The best approach to low cost housing, according to the county planning department, would be mobile home developments or perhaps encouragement of low cost areas in the Martis Valley near Truckee where land and development costs are substantially less than in the Tahoe

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:

The North Tahoe Public Utility District Engineer, Ralph Stowell, asks: "Is there a level of treatment we can reach which will allow us to discharge" treated effluent into the Truckee River.

Downstream users should reply with a "yes."

We will take what's left of the treated water after North Lake Tahoe has augmented 50 per cent of its domestic water supply with reclaimed water.

More water development is now required to serve new communities, and appropriation of water in the Lake Basin is nearing its limit.

Treatment of water to a safe potable stage is expensive, however, it must someday be accomplished.

We should design our systems for this kind of equipment now, reuse some of the water and discharge the balance of equally treated water directly into the Truckee River. A direct discharge of potable, clean and safe water would save millions of dollars in transportation of sewage, purchase of a disposal site, and the disposal of sewage. These funds should be used to build the type of plant required to produce clean, usable, domestic water and to help the Truckee River become a clear, pure and safe stream once again.

JAMES MORTON
Olympic Valley

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:

The action of the Board of Supervisors (excepting Buchanan and Lawrence) in changing the 4000 acres n-w of Truckee from environmental forest to urban residential is, in my opinion, incomprehensible.

Obviously, the only conceivable gain to be made for truckee residents would be a monetary one. What of the ir-retrievable loss in meadows, forest, streams, etc?

Is there any way we can stop this action?

Placer County Asks Delay Granting Water

The Placer County Board of Supervisors has urged the withholding of water allocations in the Lake Tahoe Basin pending adoption of a regional general plan.

The board's recommendation to the State Water Resources Control Board came after the supervisors learned that the City of South Lake Tahoe had applied for 22,000 acre feet of water - virtually all of the water allocated to California by the California - Nevada Compact Commission.

Supervisor Bob Radovich suggested the allocation be held up, stating that water should be rationed to all areas of need in the basin.

Dispersal Of State Funds To Counties

Nearly $400,000 in federal and state highway funds will be disbursed to Nevada and Placer counties in the 1970-71 fiscal year to finance improvement projects in the Federal Aid Secondary County Road system.

Nevada County will receive $130,038 while Placer County will be allocated $268,120 under a formula based on relative rural populations, miles of rural mail routes and the extent of the total area served.

The funds are derived from gasoline, diesel and other highway user taxes paid by California drivers, with the state matching federal funds on a certain percentage basis.

Of the appropriations to Nevada County, $77,294 will be from federal sources and $52,744 will be from state revenues. Placer County will receive $168,120 from the federal government and $100,00 from the state of California.

Historic Guide To Truckee-Tahoe

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the twenty-third in a series of excerpts taken from "Edwards' Tourist Guide and Directory of the Truckee Basin," published in 1883 by W. F. Edwards, former editor of the Truckee Republican.)

On February 19, 1847, the first relief party sent out by Captain Sutter reached Donner Lake. Again the History of the Donner Party is drawn upon, to unfold a picture that met their gaze:

"The mid-winter snows had almost concealed the cabins. The inmates lived subterranean lives. Steps cut in the icy snow led up from the doorway to the surface. Deep despair had settled upon their hearts. The dead were lying all around, some even unburied, and nearly all with only a covering of snow. So weak and powerless had the emigrants become that it was hardly possible for them to lift the dead bodies up the steps out of the cabins. All were reduced to mere skeletons. They had lived on pieces of rawhide, or old castaway bones which were boiled or burned until they could be eaten and they were so reduced that it seemed as if only a dry shriveled skin covered their emaciated frames.

The eyes were sunken deep into their sockets and had a fierce, ghastly, demonical look. The faces were haggard, woe-begone and sepulchral. One seldom heard the sound of a human voice and when heard it was weak, pitiful. Sometimes a child would moan and sob for a mouthful of food and the poor helpless mothers, with breaking hearts, would have to soothe them as best they could with words of kind and tender caresses. Food there was none.

Another extract from the History of the Donner Party is all that the limits of this volume can contain:

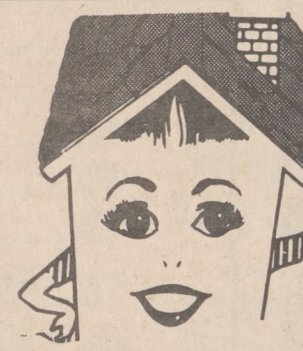

"George Donner knew that he was dying and had frequently urged his wife to leave him, cross the mountains and take care of her children. As she held her darlings in her arms it required no prophetic vision to disclose pictures of sadness, of lonely childhood, of loving girlhood, of pillows wet with tears, if these three little waifs' were left to wander friendless in California. She never expressed belief that she would see that land of promise beyond the Sierra. Often had her calm, earnest voice told them of the future which awaited them, and so far as possible had she prepared them to meet that future without counsel or sympathy of father or mother.

The night shadows, creeping through the shivering pines warned her of the long dreary way over which her tired feet must pass ere she reached her dying husband's side. She is said to have appeared strangely composed. The struggle was silent. The poor bleeding heart brought not a single moan to her lips. It was the choice between life, hope and her clinging babies or a lonely vigil by a dying husband and an unknown, that shroudless death in the wintry mountains. Her husband was sixty-three; he was well stricken in years and his life was fast ebbing away.

If snow returned through the frosty nightwinds over the crisp, freezing snow, she would travel 14 miles that day. The strong healthy men comprising the relief party could travel but five or six miles a day. If she made the journey and found her husband dead she could have no hope of returning on the morrow. She had suffered too long from hunger and privation to hope to be able to return and overtake the relief party. It was certain death or certain life. On the side of the latter was maternal love; on the side of the former it was wifely devotion. With quick convulsive pressure of her little ones to her heart, with a hasty, soul-throbbing kiss upon the lips of each, with a prayer that was stifled with a sob of agony, Tammen Donner hurried away to her husband. Through the gathering darkness, past the shadowy sentinels of the forest, they watched with fearful eyes her retreating form. She never once looked back."

"When the June sunshine bladed the Sacramento Valley three sweet little barefooted girls walked here and there among the houses and tents of Sutter's Fort. They were scantily clothed and one carried a thin blanket. At night they said their prayers and lay down in whatever tent they happened to be in and folding their blanket about them fell asleep in each other's arms. When they were hungry they asked for food of whomsoever they met. If anyone inquired who they were, they answered as their mother had taught them: 'We are the children of Mr. and Mrs. George Donner.' But they added something they had learned since. It was: 'our parents are dead.'"

TNT Five Lose Game; Retain League Lead

STILL LEAGUE LEADER - Despite the Tahoe Truckee loss to Del Oro on the TNT court last Friday night, the local team continues to lead Pioneer League play with a 7-2 record. The squad was defeated 45-42 in the last 15 seconds of the game. Pictured above is Chris Wiser (43), rated a top all-around player by his coach.

League - leading Tahoe-Truckee was defeated on its home court in a last minute surge by Del Oro 45-42 last Friday night.

With 15 seconds left in the game Jim Cowteithwaite's three-point play spelled doom for the TNT quintet. Presently, Tahoe-Truckee is first in Pioneer League play with 7-2, followed by Colfax 6-3 and Colusa 5-4.

The Eagles led 23-18 at the half and moved out by 12 before the Wolverines came back to knot the score to 42-42 to set the stage for the winning basket.

Dean Winters led the Eagles assault with 18 points with Cowteithwaite getting 12. Bill Kinsey, the Wolverines leading scorer, left the game early with a chipped bone in his ankle that will sideline him for the remainder of the season. When he left, Kinsey had 19 points. Chris Wiser added 11 in a losing cause.

Tahoe - Truckee won the junior varsity game 67-60. TNT will play Wheatland this Friday night on the Wheatland court.

Sierrans Top Lassen, Lose To Eagles Squad

Sierra College Wolverines split their last two home games of the season by winning over Lassen College 73-46 after dropping a lopsided contest to the College of the Siskiyous.

Last Friday the Wolverines sputtered for the entire 40 minutes in their 75-49 loss to second place Siskiyous. Sierra led momentarily, 2-0, then skidded to a halt, not scoring another point for nearly eight minutes.

Siskiyous opened up a 17-4 lead and then coasted to a 34-17 halftime score.

The Eagles' Jon Bennett took game honors with 21 points followed by Blake Green with 13. The Wolverines, having trouble ringing the hoop, settled for one man in double figures, Wes

Ford who had 11.

Sierra's big pivot man, 6' 6" Steve Morris, got into foul trouble early, sitting out most of the game. He finally was put back in mid-way through the second half, but immediately fouled out. His absence was felt against the taller Eagles.

In Saturday night's contest, Sierra ran past a cold Cougar team 73-46 after leading 32-14 at the half.

Lassen failed to make a field goal for the first 11 minutes of the second half, as the Wolverines built up their margin.

Four players scored in double figures for Sierra, with Tim Jones heading the list with 14. Ron Childs dropped in 13 with Scott Winter and Ralph Rick getting 11 and 10 respectively.

The only player in double figures for the Cougars was Mike Melendez, who scored 10.

Sierra's record is now 3-10 in GVC play with one game left on the road. It will be held Friday night in Napa.

North Lake Tahoe Chamber Pot Shots

By BETTY LAYTON
Our big thanks goes to Russ Dickensheet of the Department Motor Vehicles in Truckee who was chairman of our safety committee for the chamber snowmobile races. He not only spent two days at the races but obtained help for the track and we couldn't have gotten along without him. His name and the Waters Septic Tank Service were erroneously left off our acknowledgements last week.

Last summer's World's Greatest Fish Derby finished the first of September with announcements of the winners who were duly notified that a trophy would be mailed to them shortly. For the records, it is not the chamber's fault that the winners have never received their trophies, six months later. Unbelievably, the engraving is the hang up. In the meantime, the chamber gets irate letters, phone calls, and personal attacks for non-performance! There must be a lesson to be learned here and in the meantime, we apologize for the delay.

On the national legislation of the so-called National Timber Supply Act, the directors believed the bill would benefit a single interest group and it is misleading the way it is presently written. Directors at their February 19 meeting voted against passage and will notify their representatives in Congress.

This is significant inasmuch as the California State Chamber urged a "for" vote; however, six years ago our chamber was one of the few chambers in the State for a Redwood Park. The chamber has foresight.

Professor John James, a member of the chamber's environmental study committee, recommended that the chamber re-study its latest position on the Granite Chief area. He pointed out that the decision is vital in light of the tremendous proposed growth for the Lake Tahoe area. The Granite Chief area is contiguous to Tahoe and is the recreational backdrop for the entire North Shore.

Members of the Tahoe-Truckee Civil Air Patrol currently are conducting a fund-raising project to improve cadet training and refurbish their L-5 search and rescue plane.

Tickets for the May 31 drawing for a Golden Spike Centennial 30-30 lever action collector's model rifle will be available from members for a $1 donation.

Membership in the patrol includes 18 seniors and 14 cadets. The rifle was obtained from Western Auto Supply, Kings Beach.

Orvel B. Johnson who for 20 years worked on the State Park Restoration Department inspected our chamber log house recently acquired from Sierra Pacific Power Company, and was very favorably impressed by the building. He said it is in fine shape and when restored to its basic design, will make a fine center to display artifacts and welcome visitors to the area.

Washington's Birthday weekend proved a boom to our chamber reservation service. We were still placing people in rooms until 7 p.m. Saturday. The ski resorts can't build large enough facilities for weekends only but we'll look for the inevitable when the worker has more leisure time in his four-day-a-week job and the growth in skier days will be uniform throughout the week.

The Dog Sled Racing Committee met last week and will meet again this week at the Truckee Hotel. Their plans are forging ahead for a great two-day event March 7 and 8.

Invitations are also out from the Saloon Slalom committee for their third annual event at Squaw Valley, March 18.

HELPFUL ATTENDANTS - Always ready to provide a helping hand or hints on ski and lift safety are the crews manning the many chair lifts throughout the Lake Tahoe ski areas. They are well-trained to react quickly and efficiently to any and all situations. The above picture was taken at Alpine Meadows. - Gary Henry Photo.

The Agency: A Unique Government

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of seven articles on the development and future of Lake Tahoe.

BY JACK LIND
Special Tribune Correspondent
"There is created the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency as a separate legal entity."

With this awkward language, the 91st Congress of the United States at the end of last year passed legislation creating a super agency which, sometime in March, will take control of the development of the Lake Tahoe Basin.

The agency has been specifically charged with developing plans for land use, transportation, conservation, recreation and public service in the basin. It will be a Herculean task. The agency is entrusted with the task of adopting "all necessary ordinances, rules, regulations and policies" and promulgating policies ranging from water purity and tree removal to air pollution and outdoor advertising.

Its function, in short, will be to preserve the scenic beauty of the basin and control all types of pollution - water, air and visual.

Even "waste disposal from boats" and breakwaters are concerns of the regional planning agency.

Under the law, the agency must approve an interim plan within 90 days of its enactment and within 15 months a permanent general plan must be adopted. The new agency has been long in the offing but even now that it is about to become a reality - as soon as each state calls a combined organizing convention, probably on March 18 - its future is far from a certainty.

Raymond Smith, planning consultant to the present Nevada Regional Planning Agency (half of the new super-agency) puts it this way, "There have been implied threats to the agency."

The two California counties participating in the California Regional Planning Agency (the other half of the new super agency) have a suit on file challenging the constitutionality of that agency. It's not unlikely that somebody will challenge the regional agency on the ground that it is exercising legislative powers although its members are appointed to the agency.

It appears likely that Smith's handiwork for the Nevada agency - a 124-page general plan for the Nevada side of the lake - will become a basis for the super agency's own plan since the problems are generally the same on both sides of the lake.

However, the Bi-State Agency has recently hired another consulting firm, Livingstone & Blaney, to come up with their offering.

"I've made damned sure that everything that (went) into this plan has a scientific and factual foundation so when and if... in a courtroom... I can defend every thing we've done."

He conceded that he does, in fact, expect a court test of the constitutionality of the law setting up the regional agency.

This is perhaps a bit premature judgement. Until or unless the agency is challenged, the framework is now available to insure an orderly, intelligent development of the basin. The question is how well it will be used.

As in the case of the two regional agencies, members of the super agency may still be expected to cater to narrow interests of their respective counties, in the view of some observers, although it is hoped that the 10-man company will develop a broad regional thinking. Actually, there is an 11th member, a federal official, but he has no voting rights and his main job is to report back to the federal government.

"The powers are there, the framework is here and the authority is there," says Nevada State Senator Coe Swobe, who wrote most of the legislation that Congress adopted. "Now it will depend on how well these 11 people accept their responsibility."

Aside from personalities and local interests there are what appears to be a few basic flaws in the agency setup. One concerns the right of the super agency to control public works.

When the California and the Nevada agencies are merged, the Nevada agency will cease to exist (although its members will all be on the super agency); the California agency will continue to exist and will, in fact, have jurisdiction over public works by state agencies - e.g. the highway department - on the California side.

The Bi-state agency, on the other hand, will have no authority whatever over public works projects on the Nevada side, as the enabling legislation currently stands.

In fact, according to John Williams, outgoing city manager of South Lake Tahoe who wrote much of the language that set up the California agency, NOBODY will be able to review Nevada public works projects at the basin.

This is important since, in the past, the Nevada highway department has been criticized for scarring sections of the Nevada side while doing cut and fill for highway projects.

In fact, one unkindly critic referred to a section of Highway 28 as the "Rock Garden."

While it is up to the new regional agency to promulgate policies and rules for the basin, developers in the area will, it is believed, still have to go through the local agencies for approval of their plans.

In other words, the agency lays down the law, and then the local agencies will administer and enforce it.

The kicker, of course, is that any rules and regulations adopted by the regional agency in matters of planning, zoning, and land use will supersede anything on the books of the individual counties or the cities of South Lake Tahoe and Carson City. That very fact, in the opinion of some observers, makes it doubtful the agency will be enthused about adopting anything innovative that the city and the respective counties might, for one reason or another, view with dismay.

In this connection it is worth noting that six of the 10 voting members on the regional agency are appointed by South Lake Tahoe and the five counties; that makes for a clear majority for local, rather than regional interests.

Not to mention the fact that there has, in the past, been a good deal of professional jealousy between the north and the south end of the lake.

All of this will make for a very interesting operation of a public agency.

Whether Ray Smith's detailed plan for the present Nevada agency will become a framework for the bi-state agency's own plan remains to be seen.

Briner, who will take his seat on the bi-state agency, refers, of course, to the fact that while Smith's plan, which has been in the works since last summer, is detailed, comprehensive - and expensive - the California side has relatively little to show for being in existence for two years. It has had no staff, has worked with little money, and its own plan, according to some observers, is mostly a patchwork of existing ordinances ("the same old rabbits in the same old cabbage patch," said one observer).

"You can put the two plans together with scotch tape," says John Williams, the South Lake Tahoe city manager.

Smith was asked whether he thought the bi-state agency would adopt his plan, delivered to a joint meeting of the agency a couple of weeks ago. It's hard to tell, he said, some people think that "nothing good can come out of Nevada" (Smith has his office in Reno).

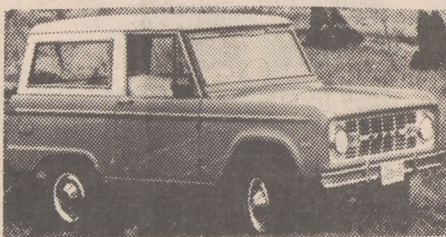

Smith knows as much as anybody about the Lake Tahoe basin. The bookcase in his Reno office bulges with some 10 feet of books and documents about all aspects of the lake.

"We have approached the master plan along very strong ecological lines," he says. "Ecology is the big password."

"Rather than extrapolate a curve and saying that by 1990 there ought to be x number of people in the basin and then devising a plan to fit them, we have tried to analyze all the various factors that have a tendency to affect the environment... and as a result of that analysis we have tried to come up with a reasonable population level that will fit within the environment without degrading it."

All this is trade jargon for establishing density patterns in the basin, but what Smith is saying is that he has been trying to determine what the population should be to preserve the environment rather than basing his plan on an expected population.

Not only could the plan, if enacted and adopted by the bi-state agency, have direct affects on land developments but it would almost surely wreak havoc with small land owners who bought their land for investment purposes.

Among the specific recommendations of Smith's general plan are the following:

- Much of the Nevada Region should be left in a minimal low-density "open space" or greenbelt area. In the interest of equity, it cannot be exclusively non-use. Private lands must be capable of some reasonable usage.

- Certain major traffic arteries around the basin should be "underplanned" in order to limit traffic flow and preserve the environment.

- The use of mini-buses or tramways to alleviate traffic - and to reduce air pollution - must be seriously explored both as urban carriers and as connectors from airports and out-of-basin parking structures.

Some of Smith's more innovative suggestions will be described in the last article in this series, but it's worth noting his philosophy in developing the general plan:

"In our democracy we have evolved three major ways of approaching community problems; methods that have in most cases become habits or reflex actions. We wait for individual breakdowns, such as in sewer capacity, or traffic problems, only then seeking an expedient relief, or we approach each such problem independently and individually... one at a time."

"Or we make a single comprehensive approach to major interrelated problems. The latter is the solution that has the most value. To do this, however, there must be comprehensive planning; planning that considers all functions; planning that relates to the values that are cherished; planning that takes a realistic view of the future into consideration."

(The final article in this series will deal with a prognosis for the future... and it looks rosy).

Nordic Tourney To Honor Two Famous Sierra Skiers

John A. (Snow-Shoe) Thompson and Roy Mikkelsen, two world-famous Norway-born Sierra skiers, will be memorialized March 7 and 8 at the Auburn Ski Club sponsored Nordic tournament at Boreal Ridge Winter Park.

Expected to draw competitors from throughout the Western snow country, the two-day tournament will be the Auburn club's first major tourney since the completion of its Nordic ski complex last season.

Saturday, March 7 will feature the 22nd running of the Snow-Shoe Thompson 15-kilometer cross-country classic. The winner's name will be inscribed on a silver plaque below the Holmenkollen Cup, sent from Norway 20 years ago by the Norwegian Ski society in memory of Thompson, who beginning in 1856 carried mail on skis across the Sierra.

The cup, originally billed as "The silver link between the United States and Norway," will be on a permanent display in the museum. It was retired by Dr. Sheldon Varney, former South Lake Tahoe school teacher now residing in Pacifica, who scored the most points during the six-year period climaxed with a Thompson Centennial race in 1956.

Sunday, the Roy Mikkelsen Memorial Ski Jumping Hill will be dedicated by club officials accompanied by Auburn civic leaders and a contingent of the Sons of Norway. Mikkelsen, twice national ski jumping champion, and twice an Olympian, died in Oct. 1967, a few days after supervising the beginning of construction at the club's museum and Nordic ski complex.

A native of Kongsberg, Norway, Mikkelsen was 60 years of age. He resided 36 years in Auburn, where he served one term as mayor and also was a leader in many civic projects. His ski feats won him membership in the National Ski Hall of Fame.

Following dedication, Far West, Pacific Northwest and California-Nevada intercollegiate and interscholastic skiers will compete in the Class "A" "B" and junior tournament on the 45-meter hill. Divisional juniors will be vying for places on the FWSA junior national team.

Tourney co-chairmen are Charles Fink of Auburn and J.L. (Bud) Sorensen of Reno, Sierra College Coach Paul Chesney is in charge of entries, while Auburn Ski Club President Dick Hamilton will be chief of the hill, assisted by former champions Andy Blodger, Finn Rasmussen, Rolf Wigaard and Bill Nelson.

Judges will be Howard Pyle, Charles Cross, Sig Vellestad, Orrin Ellington and Bob Rucker. The latter, a one time University of Nevada skier, held the North American distance record in 1939 with a 257-foot leap at Iron Mountain, Mich.

Wendell T. Robie, club founder and first president of the Far West Ski Association back in 1930, has announced the club has launched an aggressive program of supporting organized ski competition in honor of the pioneers who brought the sport to California.

Congressman Johnson Seeking Reelection

WASHINGTON — Veteran Legislator Harold T. (Bizz) Johnson announces his candidacy for reelection as representative of the 20-county Second Congressional District.

"During the 11 years I have served in the House of Representatives, I have sought to be a working congressman, devoting my entire time and energy to the single responsibility of providing the people of the Second Congressional District the type of dedicated representation which they deserve," the congressman said in making his announcement.

"In seeking reelection, I stand on this record of accomplishment. And, if the people of the Second District choose to let me continue to represent them in the 92nd Congress, good representation will be my only goal," Johnson stated.

In addition to his dedicated service to his district, Johnson also cited his experience and qualifications for the post. During 30 years as a legislator, he has served as a member of a local school board, as a mayor of his hometown of Roseville, as a California state senator, and for six terms as a representative in Congress.

Throughout these years, he has been active in the field of conservation and utilization of natural resources, including timber, water and power, minerals, grazing lands, wilderness, and summer and winter recreation resources. He has been a leader in the fight to prevent water and air pollution from depriving the state and nation of these resources.

Johnson has recognized the tremendous need in this complex era of a solid education for all people. He has worked for adequate health protection for communities and people, including water and sewer development, Medicare, research efforts. He has fought for the freedom of the individual to own firearms. He has actively supported adequate retirement benefits under Social Security and worked for realistic veterans benefits.

He has consistently worked for a just peace in Vietnam and the rest of the world. During the 22 years he has served in the House of Representatives, he has achieved leadership positions on the various committees of importance to the economy of the Second development, Medicare, research efforts. He has fought for the freedom of the individual to own firearms. He has actively supported adequate retirement benefits under Social Security and worked for realistic veterans benefits.

He has consistently worked for a just peace in Vietnam and the rest of the world.

During the 22 years he has served in the House of Representatives, he has achieved leadership positions on the various committees of importance to the economy of the Second District, chairing the Irrigation and Reclamation Subcommittee and serving as a senior member on the Parks and Recreation, Public Lands, Flood Control, Rivers and Harbors, Public Buildings and Grounds subcommittees and the Select Committee on Interstate Highways.

"Although 1970 is an election year, I will not wage any formal campaign during the primary election or before the general election until the work of the 91st Congress is completed," Johnson declared.

"The people elected me to serve them during the entire 91st Congress, and I will stay on the job until this mission is completed. Until the final adjournment of Congress I will rely on my many friends throughout the 20 counties making up the Second District for any formal campaign activity," he said.

In concluding his reelection appeal, Johnson expressed appreciation for the opportunity to work with the people of the Second District, their local governmental agencies, chambers of commerce and other civic groups in promoting the best interests of the mountain-valley region.

"It is my sincere hope," he declared, "that I will have the opportunity to continue this fine association."

Sacramento Offers Blacksmithing Class

A unique job-training course, believed to be the first of its kind in the nation, is under way in Sacramento, offering high school students the chance to earn at least $10,000 annually immediately after graduation. The job: horseshoer. The prospects: $20,000 annually after six months in the business.

The unusual course, officially titled "Farrier Training," was described today by Gilbert L. Sheffield, Director of the State's Department of Human Resources Development, as a "commendable example of the kind of inter-agency cooperation needed in job-training programs."

Sheffield said the need for such a course was originally suggested by a job counselor in H.R.D. Department after a survey produced an estimate of more than 50,000 horses in Sacramento County, with only about 15 qualified full-time horseshoers. A program of farrier training under the Manpower Development and Training Act was then proposed, as a job opportunity for youth not bound for college, but budget and staff resources to support the program were not available. The counselor then suggested the course to Sacramento County Office of Education, where it was included in the Regional Occupational Center program. The first course, now in progress, began in October of last year and will be completed in June this year, Sheffield said.

Hundreds of young people have shown interest in the course, he said, but there are only 20 openings, currently filled by 17 boys and three girls, seniors in Sacramento County high schools.

The course is held in a converted building in the old Sacramento Fair Grounds. Instructor Tom Fisk holds a Farriers Degree from Oregon State University and has had 15 years of professional horseshoeing experience.

The 20 workstations each have forges, anvils, and other blacksmith tools. Students begin training on horses' legs, which are obtained from a local pet food establishment. The legs are kept ready in cold storage until put to use by students who learn the fundamentals of forming and fitting without risk of damaging the feet of live horses.

The course includes study of the anatomy, physiology and diseases of horses' feet, horse handling, study of faults in horse gaits, estimation and preparation of feet for shoes, application of normal and corrective shoes, appropriate shoeing for different breeds, farrier's relationship to customer and veterinarian, schedule charts, and record keeping. When instructor Fisk feels students have had sufficient experience, live horses are solicited from horse owners in the area. Fisk also takes students with him on weekends when he takes care of some of his regular customers.

So. Lake Tahoe 544-5222

NEWS FROM NORTH TAHOE PUBLIC UTILITY DISTRICT
In June, just in time for the summer season, the North Tahoe PUD will have completed $600,000 in water distribution improvements which, when supplemented by existing facilities, will give the district a water storage capacity of 2 million gallons and enough pumping capacity to provide the commercial areas with 2,000 to 3,000 gallons of water per minute. This will all have been done without raising taxes. Water revenues will pay for the improvements under a rate system effective Jan. 1, 1969, which is generally lower than any other major Lake Tahoe water system. Today the Gene McLaughlin-Valley Engineer combine of Fresno is laying 10,000 feet of 12-inch water main in California 28, 2,000 feet of 10-inch main in Tahoe Vista and fire hydrants are being placed in Deer, Bear, Coon and Fox Streets to Cuthroat Avenue, with fire hydrants on every corner. In an earlier contract, district directors had installed a water pump station at California 28 and National Avenue with a 1,000-foot intake line in Lake Tahoe at a 30-foot depth. The pump can produce 1,600 gallons per minute. The earlier contract provided a 500,000-gallon storage tank on Griff Creek. When the improvements are complete, North Tahoe water customers should enjoy a reduction in the national fire insurance underwriters classification from Class 9 to Class 7 and multiple residential and commercial customers should receive a 40 per cent reduction in fire insurance premiums, depending upon their insurance carrier and the amount of insurance they carry. Average single homes should enjoy comparable reductions in insurance premiums.

Understanding the water rate structure seems to have bothered some people. First, water customers should read the ordinance establishing the rates, which was mailed to each customer. Next, the rate structure really is not difficult to understand. For single-family homes on lots of half an acre or less with service connections 1 inch or smaller an all-year customer pays a flat rate of $66 per year, if you are disconnected now or yours is a brand new connection, you'll be charged an additional $10 for turning on the water by a district employee. The $66 may be paid in full or in quarterly payments, which become delinquent 30 days after they are due. Now, customers may also sign up for any five consecutive months under the single-family classification and it costs them $45. These customers receive free turn-ons and a free automatic shut-off after the five months have passed. But any usage longer than the five consecutive months will cost the customer $31 more for the balance of the calendar year. All five-month minimum customers will be asked to pay their $45 in advance. Customers on new single-family services also should expect to pay connection fees of $10 if all facilities for connection have been installed or $50 if the district has to install the facilities on not more than 10 feet of a 1-inch or smaller service tap. All other connection will be billed at actual cost to the district.

Please remember that the customer shall not use the district's water valve to turn water on or off for his convenience. All commercial and multiple residential service, including swimming pools, will begin to pay for water on a metered basis when all of the meters are installed. The minimum charge is $7.50 per month per meter for the first 10,000 gallons through a three-quarter-inch line or less. Minimum charges progress in seven steps up to $75 for a 6-inch line per month. In addition to minimum charges, the next 90,000 gallons will cost 55 cents per 1,000 gallons per month per meter, etc.

Kingdom Hall Dedication Set

Jehovah's Witnesses of Truckee will dedicate their new Kingdom Hall, built with the volunteer labor of members of the local congregation on Saturday afternoon.

The dedication program will include a talk by N.H. Knorr, president of the Watchtower Society, Brooklyn, New York. The new worship center is located at Smith and Keiser streets. Activities planned for Saturday are an open house from 1 to 5 p.m., followed at 7:30 p.m. by talks concerning the history of the local congregation, construction highlights and Knorr's dedication speech.

A Watchtower study, "Manifesting Loyalty Toward Jehovah and His Word," has been scheduled for the Sunday morning service at 10.

Following this program, members of the local congregation will journey to Reno where Knorr will address all area congregations and interested persons in Centennial Coliseum. The talk will begin at 2 p.m.

"The local congregation wishes to invite all their friends and interested persons in the Truckee-Tahoe area to share open house as well as the rest of the program," Knorr points out.

Immunization Clinic Friday

The monthly Immunization Clinic sponsored by Nevada County Health Department will be held this Friday at the Nevada County Government Center in Truckee.

Hours for the clinic are noon to 1 p.m. notes Dr. Ray Wiser who will give the immunizations.

Vaccinations to be given free of charge include DPT, polio, smallpox, measles and tuberculosis skin tests.

NEW WORSHIP CENTER - N.H. Knorr of the Watchtower Society of Brooklyn, New York, will speak at dedication ceremonies for the new Kingdom Hall of the Jehovah's Witnesses of Truckee.

The building, built with volunteer labor from members of the local congregation, is located on the corner of Smith and Keiser streets. —Art Dollar Photo.

Truckee Lakeworld Project Discussed In Grass Valley

The recreation community to be built by Lakeworld Development Co. near Truckee was discussed Tuesday at the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce lunch meeting.

Ed Pasteris, an official with the developing company which began one year ago, introduced Ron Pardini, director of development for Lakeworld.

Pardini told the large number of chamber members and guests that 1½ lots per acre would be built at Tahoe Northwoods at Donner Lake with "12 months recreation facilities available."

A ski slope, 18-hole tournament golf course, tennis courts, swimming pool, horseback riding trails and other recreational facilities will be built "within four or five years." He said a pier would be built on Donner Lake as part of the development and an 88-acre lake is planned within the development.

The multi-use dwellings and commercial buildings will be connected to a sewer system, Pardini said, but septic tanks should handle the single family homes for "the next 25 years." Methods for avoiding pollution are being considered with buffer zones of from 200 to 1,000 feet surrounding the creeks. Sites are being planned for future schools and for a fire house, Pardini added.

Mushers To Race At Airport

By BETTY LAYTON

The chambers of commerce are preparing for the dogs March 7 and 8 at the Truckee-Tahoe Airport and if there isn't enough snow there, they will have to change the location but the races will go on.

The dog sled program which will be available at the races lists a few "do's" for visitors and spectators, including: leave your pets in the car, or at home; keep your children out of the way of the dog teams; ask for permission to pet dogs; check the scoreboard on the judge's stand for results; read the explanation of race timing to understand results; dress in warm, old clothes and low-heeled boots; bring your camera.

What makes a winning dog team? The answer is mostly practice. Dog sled racing is a hobby with most drivers and the teams are trained at least two or three times a week starting in the fall.

All sorts of vehicles are used in the time before the snow falls. Truckee musher Dave Walling has concocted an old used foreign car body stripped down for his Siberian Huskies to practice their pulling muscles on; no snow is needed for this contraption.

The dogs enjoy running in a team and patience, understanding and hard work produce winning drivers and dogs. Many dogs become as tense before a race as do their human counterparts in athletic contests. Teams of three or four dogs can do well, but most racing teams have at least five dogs, often owned by a number of different people. The lead dog almost always belongs to the driver. Dog driving has all the thrills of skiing without its limitations!

Walling, this year's chairman, races in the cross-country event; his wife, Joan, races in the five dog class and his 14-year-old daughter, Sheryl, is a deft racer in the three dog class as is his 11-year-old son, Steve, who is a charger behind the three dog sled team. The entire family collects many trophies at practically every race they attend and all winter they follow the circuit of dog races in the neighboring states and areas.

North Tahoe for many years has been the tough race for the competitors. A $1500 purse plus trophies is offered to the winners in the cross-country and 5 dog sled races. Trophies only are awarded in the 3 dog sled races and junior races.

The skillful drivers are out there running with their dogs most of the distance of the race and they must be in top physical condition to compete with the top racers in this country. More than 35 mushers are anticipated for the two-day races. A $1 booster button is required admission at the airport, with children under 12 years of age admitted free. For further information, write or phone the North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce, Box 884, Tahoe City, (916) 583-3461.

Two Injured In Accidents

Two Tahoe - Truckee men were treated and released from Tahoe Forest Hospital last week following injuries sustained in auto accidents.

Bruce L. Rowley, 22, of Tahoe Vista, told investigating officers that he noticed a fire beneath his vehicle, swerved it to the right and jumped out, falling against a paddle marker. Apparently a rubber tube connecting the fuel pump with the fuel filter split, spewing gasoline. A spark leak from one of the plugs probably was the source of ignition.

Frank Frances Chini, 55, of Truckee, was struck by a auto driven by James K. Tasker, 32, Tahoe City, while he was walking along West River Street near Highway 267. The accident report stated that Chini apparently did not yield the right of way to the vehicle.

Snowmobile Racers Arriving

HE PUT IT TOGETHER - Norman Johnson, race coordinator and vice president and director of public relations for Advertising, Inc., put together the hundreds of details for the Kings Castle $50,000 Grand Prix starting Thursday. Johnson is a former award winning sports writer and also competes in off-road racing.

The $50,000 Kings Castle Snowmobile Grand Prix opening tomorrow has been bringing in teams of drivers since Sunday.

Officials from both the Western Snowmobile Association and the United States Snowmobile Association arrived Monday to set up pit areas, make final checks on the track and to prepare for arrival of all race drivers and the press.

Norman Johnson, race coordinator, said arrangements have been made to truck snow into the race oval in the event there is no hoped-for last minute snowfall.

With such famous sports personalities as Joe Louis, John Brodie, Don Drysdale, Ken Venturi, Bob Rossburg, and Evil Knevil competing, along with such famous race drivers as Roger Ward, Mel Larson, Joe Leonard, Jim Hurtubise, Merle Brennan and Paula Murphy, the Grand Prix has taken on a national image far surpassing expectations.

Grand Marshalls for the Kings Castle Grand Prix are two of the greatest race drivers ever to slide into a bucket seat, Parnelli Jones and Bobby Unser. Both are winners of the Indianapolis "500."

These two greats, along with a select number of other drivers, will give a demonstration Saturday of how Indy drivers handle a snowmobile. It'll be for fun, but they'll still be competing for personal pleasure.

More than 250 drivers from around the world, including Canada, Japan and Alaska will be shooting for the pot of Gold to be given away next Sunday.

At the end of the hard grind will be checks for at least $5,000.00 to winners of Class "A" and "B" Grand Prix, and $4,000.00 to those taking the checkered flag in Class "C" and "D" Grand Prix.

Paula Murphy, and rock 'n roll star Mama Cass Elliott, are two of the Powder Puff drivers who will be aiming for the $1,000.00 check for winning either Class "C" or "D" Grand Prix for women.

A race that is sure to attract a lot of attention will be the VIP Celebrity event on Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m. Many local and statewide personalities such as Lt. Governor Ed Fike, Dist. Atty. William Raggio, Frank Johnson of the Nevada Gaming Commission, Earle Thompson, Sahara-Tahoe vice president, Dean Miller and Bill Anderson of Incline Village, along with Lee Marvin and Buddy Hackett and a host of sport celebrities will vie for trophies and a new Triac-off-road vehicle.

"We think this particular race will have a tremendous amount of interest and will also be very competitive," Nate Jacobson, president of Kings Castle Hotel and Casino said. "Even though they're only racing for a trophy, these men will be out to win!"

There will be lots of favorites, depending on what kind of snowmobile one prefers. But they'll all be here. Factory teams from Ski-Doo, Scorpion, Artic Cat, Rupp, Moto-Ski, Polaris, and Sno-Jet have entered the race. And each team has their own champions.

Ski-Doo a forerunner in the snowmobile business, has two champions entered in the race. Duane Eck holds the land speed record for snowmobiles at 95.33, and recently unofficially turned in a 98 mph clocking, and Yvon Duhamel of Quebec who was crowned World Champion at Eagle River, Wisconsin, last month. Both these drivers have over the past year, either won or placed second in practically every race they entered.

Artic Cat will be represented by three strong contenders, including a former World Champion, Roger Janssen lost

CHAMPION ENTERS RACE - LeRoy Lindblad, 1970 international 500 champion (Winnipeg, Canada to St. Paul, Minn.), talks with Wayne Burkel while waiting to race in grass events fast becoming a popular summer sport. Both are entered in the Kings Castle Grand Prix this week as is Burkel's father who is the 1969 Alaska "600" winner.

Nevada Agency Directors To Consider Plan

Directors of the Nevada Tahoe Regional Planning Agency announced Wednesday that they will consider the adoption of a master plan for the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe at a meeting scheduled March 6 at 9:30 a.m. in the Cal-Neva Lodge, Crystal Bay.

The Nevada agency made the announcement during a joint meeting with its California counterpart Wednesday in South Lake Tahoe city hall.

City and regional planner Lawrence Livingston Jr., San Francisco, told the joint-body it should consider commissioning 10 specific studies of the Lake Tahoe Basin in order to implement the best possible policies regarding Lake development during the 18-month interim the bi-state agency will have to adopt a master plan.

The procedure, as outlined by Livingston, is similar to the one used by the Bay Area Conservation and Development Commission.

Hold Classes - A two-day evening class in principals of air traffic control will be presented for local pilots by the Federal Aviation Administration Tuesday and Wednesday at the Carson Airport in Carson City.

The classes are called "Operation Rain Check" and are free of charge. Sessions commence at 7 p.m. both days.

Cougars Defeated

Upsets were the order of the day Monday on Ski Incline's windswept slopes. The previously undefeated Cougars were thumped by the surging Trojans 147 to 132.

In the day's other race, the hapless Devils finally got into the win column by topping the second place Rams 150 to 114. The Rams lost a golden opportunity to move into a first place tie.

As it turned out, the Cougars retained their first place standing with a 3-1 record, followed by the Rams and Cougars at 2-2, and the lowly Devils at 1-3.

The fifth and final race is scheduled for Sunday, March 7 and promises to be a great finale to the season, pitting the first place Cougars against the Rams, and the Trojans against the Devils. All of this could lead to a three way tie in which case a special race would probably be held.

Leading the way for the Trojans were Benjie Facciolla, Jay Steinmeyer and Christine Todd. Kathy Cornforth, Kirk Walberg and Rusty Lund led the Devils in their first winning effort.

The two best times of the day were turned in by the Ram's Bobby Badertscher 22.5 and the Cougars Jon Knorpp in 22.7, both in losing causes. Others in the top ten were: Cathy Cornforth 24.2, Benjie Facciolla 24.6, Christie Gurney 25.2, Kim Troyan 25.3, Jay Jensen 25.8, Jay Steinmeyer 27.0, Christine Todd 27.5, and Kirk Walberg 28.0.

BURIED IN BOOKS - Joan Barnes, student and "girl Friday" for administration at Sierra Nevada College, sits amid a portion of some 10,000 books that arrived on campus last week for the college library. She is being assisted in unpacking by students Chuck Stapp of Squaw Valley and Patrick Linsley of Incline. Miss Barnes, assisted by staff and students supervised the monumental task of moving the books donated by the California Book Company at Berkeley, Calif. Next on the agenda - cataloguing and shelving, another monumental task.

mentioned that everywhere she goes on the golf circuits, she's asked about Lake Tahoe and Nevada.

"It's the greatest place in the world, this Lake Tahoe area and I hope to stay here forever."

Now home for the winter, Mrs. Maxwell said she and her husband will spend a great deal of time skiing Lake Tahoe slopes. They'll also be busy designing the home they will build at Crystal Bay.

Some 250 sports enthusiasts turned out for the award banquet where Gov. Paul Laxalt was named "Sportsman of the Year," Mike Lommori of Yerington High School, "Coach of the Year," Kris Hargrove of Reno High, "Junior Horseman of the Year" and Mrs. Norma Smith, "Senior Horseman of the Year."

Gov. Laxalt is accepting his award lauded retiring University of Nevada Athletic Director Jane Lawlor, and the new director, Dick Trachok, who made the awards.

"This is one of the most rewarding honors of my career," Gov. Laxalt said. "I'm an avid sportsman and always have been."

"And I'm most grateful for competitive athletics. 'It not only taught me to win, more importantly, it taught me to lose.'"

Mrs. Berning was given her award for accomplishment in women's professional golf; Gov. Laxalt for his promotion of youth sports in Nevada and Lommori for developing a championship team from the second smallest football squad at Yerington High School coach has had to work with.

Washoe County Horseman's Association and Lura Tularski's Saddle Chatter column were sponsors of the horseman-ship awards and cosponsors of the banquet. Mrs. Tularski was mistress of ceremonies for those awards.

Featured speaker was Oakland Raider Head Coach John Madden, youngest head coach in pro-football. He gave an "behind the scenes" account of a professional football season, explaining the intricacies of training and football play strategy.

"We play the teams in our division - Kansas City, San Diego, and Denver twice - and five teams in our conference and five in the other conference," explained Madden.

"It will make a difference which team we draw."

Rollan Melton, vice president of Spidel Newspapers, Inc., was master of ceremonies. Singer Jimmy Rogers entertained with "I'm a Troubled Man," and "What We Going to Do?"

Ted Dawson, KOLO TV sports-caster and Jim Thompson, Nugget publicist, past president of the association, were both given special honorary awards.

Boutique Opens At Nursery

"We came for a vacation and fell so in love with Incline and the Lake that we decided to stay," said Maggie Pezzino, co-owner with husband Sal of the recently opened Samar's Boutique and Dress Shop.

"That was last October and now look what we have!" she exclaimed showing her newly arrived jewelry and handbags. "And there's lots more fashions on the way, too."

Maggie, for more than seven years a buyer for Bullocks at Fullerton, Calif., said the shop features cocktail wear, fun furs and street wear as well as sportswear with numerous coordinates. Accessories accent the unusual in jewelry, belts and a large selection of handbags.

When the Pezzinos moved to Incline, Sal left his post as an engineer for Aero Neutronic at Hawthorne, Calif. One daughter, Penny Olsen stayed behind, too, although she expects to visit often. She's a secretary at Hughes Aircraft in Fullerton. Another daughter, Brandy, is attending Chico State College.

Already firmly entrenched in the Incline community, the Pezzinos have purchased a home site and expect to build - "maybe by next year, we'll be in our own house," said Maggie.

RACE TEAM - Bob Badertscher introduced four members of Incline's Far West Ski Racing team last Thursday at the noon luncheon meeting of the Boosters Club. They are, from left, Kenny Poohachoff, Bob Badertscher, Kathy Cornforth and Rusty Lund. In telling about the team, Badertscher noted the fine skiing all were accomplishing and noted how well they placed in racing against heavy competition. Last Saturday they raced at Slide Mountain. Badertscher also thanked the club for the donation to run the red lift for the racers' practice sessions at Skie Incline. Tom Cornforth, club president, explained the Boosters Club was being asked to back a proposed Incline hospital project as a community project. He said there is no obligation involved. Dean Miller told about and demonstrated his revolutionary Exer-Genie which is used by space men for exercise during space flights.

Recommends Height Limit

RENO - Washoe Regional Planning Commission has recommended a two-story height limitation on multiple residential developments for the county's portion of Tahoe Basin.

Planners noted they are following recommendations for the proposed general plan for development of the Nevada side of Tahoe Basin.

Richard Allen, planning director, said it will be recommended in the plan that a two-story height limit be set, with special use permits required for higher structures.

The permit approach was taken, Allen said, because it is not desired to rule out all high-rise structures at Tahoe.

PROGRAM APPROVED - Department of Motor Vehicles Director James C. Bailey, left, and Gov. Paul Laxalt had reason to be pleased when they were notified by the U.S. Department of Transportation that Nevada's Highway Safety Program had been approved. Nevada was one of 28 States to win this recognition. Bailey said the Nevada Highway Safety office has initiated 22 different safety projects in many areas throughout the state ranging from alcohol testing devices and statewide radio communications to electronic VASCAR equipment for the Highway Patrol. Some of the larger projects approved in Nevada have been in Clark County where a two-channel radio system for the motorcycle division of the Las Vegas Police Department is in operation; and in Washoe County where a video recording system has been installed, putting drunk driver suspects and others "on camera" at time of booking.

Walks Away

Nevada State Prison inmate Gary Lamar Long, 26, walked away from maximum security while on trusty duty earlier this month and prison officials are still looking for him.

Long was arrested in 1968 at Hidden Beach on a burglary charge and sentenced to four years in prison.

Zone Change: No

The Regional Planning Commission last week recommended denial of a request by Lincoln Fitzgerald for rezoning to commercial of certain property between Cal Neva Drive and Crystal Drive and West of Somers Drive at Crystal Bay.

George Folsom, who represented Fitzgerald, said there is no definite plan for development but the owner wanted to get all the property in a uniform classification. Fitzgerald is owner operator of the Nevada Lodge at Crystal Bay and Nevada Club in Reno.

von Brincken Files Request

Dr. Friedrich von Brincken has filed a motion to dismiss the Washoe County District Attorney's appeal of a decision freeing von Brincken of an involuntary manslaughter charge.

Von Brincken's motion claims the district attorney's motion didn't give reasons for an appeal. In his motion, von Brincken says the appeal is "frivolous and without meaning" and "shocking and outrageous."

Von Brincken was indicted in 1969 by the Washoe County Grand Jury with involuntary manslaughter in the death of his wife. He later was freed on a writ of habeas corpus.

He now asks dismissal of the DA's motion so that he "may proceed to build a life of peace and dignity."

No Parking

Lt. Jesse Ramsey of the Incline Washoe County Sheriff's Substation reminds motorists that it is a misdemeanor to park or stop on any public highway, road or street, including right of ways in snow removal areas.

Lt. Ramsey said the ordinance governing any such infraction makes the vehicle owner totally responsible for any damage to his car and provides for the sheriff's office to tow the car away at the owners expense. He said snow removal areas are posted.

Mr. and Mrs. Rod Campbell of Incline Beach have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lynne Staben to William Jilbert, of Las Vegas. The wedding has been set for March 21 at the Presbyterian Church at Incline Village with Rev. Al Fry officiating at a 7 o'clock evening ceremony. A reception will follow in the California Room at Cal Neva Lodge.

Lynne attended the local schools and was graduated from the University of Nevada in January as a major in speech therapy. William is also a graduate of the University of Nevada 1969. They plan to make their home in Flagstaff, Arizona, where he is employed.

Lynne's matron of honor will be Sharon (Abrahamian) Donahue of Los Angeles, Sharon will be soloist at the wedding. Sharon was married to Dennis Donahue in Los Angeles last year and Lynne was a bridesmaid at her wedding. At present Sharon is attending UCLA. The Abrahamian family resided at Agate Bay for several years and the girls attended school together. Georgia and Armen Abrahamian bought a store in Los Angeles after leaving Tahoe but have sold that and at present they are enjoying a life of leisure.

Voter registration for the Incline and Crystal Bay areas will be March 5 and 6 at the Eagle Thrifty Market at Incline Village - 11 a.m. 'til 3 p.m. both days. Registrars are Jacques Black, Joyce Anderson, Lois Bub, Doramee Jakobson, Vivian Kisiluk, and Lucille Davis. Should anyone plan to be away during these two days, phone one of the registrars and arrange registering another day.

Bernie and Bill Lake are back to their Incline home after a four months round - the world cruise aboard the British ship, the Oransay. Their travels took them to Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong, Manila, Australia, Cape Town and Durbin in South Africa, Dakar, Lisbon, France, Italy, on to England for a three weeks stay and then home to Los Angeles via the polar route. The high lights of their trip were Capetown and Durbin - in that order - where they fell in love with the country. Where next, lucky people?

Marge and Tommy Gore are home at Agate Bay after a successful cotton picking season at Goodyear, Ariz. Well, the season and the city are consistent! Good!

Fire Chief Says Burn OK

Fire Chief Jack Kissinger has announced the county division of air pollution control has temporarily rescinded an earlier "stop order" on burning of combustible refuse.

The air pollution division will now allow burning upon application to the fire district until May 1, 1970.

After that date, the division will request that all special use permits issued by the county will state that stockpiling of combustible refuse will not be permitted except on a 24 hour basis or until a truck load has been accumulated on the site.

Chief Kissinger said two or three days notice is needed to get the permit back to the applicant so the refuse can be burned.

"It looks like there will be no burning of any kind within the district after the May 1 date," said Kissinger.

"So lets get at it and clean it all up now," he suggested.

Permits may be obtained by calling the North Lake Tahoe Fire Protection District at 831-0351.

Sheriff Reports Theft Of Skis On Increase

Deputies at the Incline Substation of Washoe County Sheriff's Office report thefts of unattended skis, especially from racks on top of automobiles continue to increase.

Lt. Jess Ramsey suggests that skiers be sure to lock skis either in the car or in the rack.

In other sheriff's office actions this month, Incline Sports Haus reported the theft of several pairs of skis. Burglars gained entry by kicking in a back window.

An estimated $75 in fishing equipment was reported stolen from the back end of his car by Bernard Isensee. He reported the burglary occurred during the night at his residence at the Incline Village Trailer Court.

Numerous citations have been issued by deputies. John Adams of Kings Beach was arrested and released on $50 bail for speeding, crossing double yellow line on Crystal Bay Hill and driving without a drivers licence.

Booked For Possession

Four young men were arrested last week and booked for possession of marijuana and their vehicle was impounded after Incline sheriff's deputies detected a suspicious odor when the car was stopped for a traffic violation.

Deputy Coffey reported he stopped the car after the driver passed three vehicles at an intersection, brought the car and its occupants into the substation where he was joined by Deputy Garner. A citation was issued the driver for driving without a license and for passing at an intersection.

When deputies detected an odor identified with marijuana, the vehicle was searched. Found were two butts of hand rolled cigarettes, a plastic bag with a large amount of green vegetable material and two bottled containing more than 100 unlabeled tablets.

Arrested and taken to the Washoe County jail were the driver, Frank Annau, 26, Stephen Lee, 21, Ronald Morrison and a fourth young man, all of the Bay Area in California.

Approve Plan For Hotel At Crystal Bay

RENO - Washoe County Commissioners have approved plans for a 12-story, 264-room hotel addition to Crystal Bay Club at North Lake Tahoe.

The development also includes a multilevel parking garage. The landlord for the development is a group incorporated as the Ohio Real Estate and Investment Trust.

It will lease the hotel-parking complex to the present management of the Crystal Bay Club. Nearby is the recently completed 10-story Cal Neva Hotel.

Architect David Jacobson said plans provide for extensive landscaping, including addition of trees facing the lake.

President, Electronic Instruments for Research, Inc., and Board Member, Brager and Co., Gulf American Land Co., and the Jacobson acquired the Kings Castle Hotel in March 1969, and under his direction, the facility promises to be the finest luxury hotel in the Tahoe resort area.

Lewis G. Kurtz, K.C., executive vice president, served as executive vice president of the Bonanza Hotel on the Las Vegas Strip. He had been controller and assistant treasurer of the $26 million Caesar's Palace, executive vice president-corporate financing with Inter-American International, Inc., and filled various executive positions with Harris, Kerr, Forster & Co., in New York, and other hotel & industry operations.

A graduate of Temple University, Kurtz lettered in five sports and was an all-American mountain driving. Last week Jack Rowe of Incline was arrested for hit and run and driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor following an accident on Crystal Bay Hill. Deputies report they stopped to check a car without lights parked in the middle of highway 28. The car, however, started before deputies could reach it, turned and hit the police car, then continued on without stopping, with deputies in pursuit. Rowe was stopped on Gonnawabe Street and taken into custody. He was booked at the Reno Washoe County Sheriff's office.

Frank Gorshin 'Many People' Both On And Off The Stage

By SHERYL JENSEN

"I spend my life trying to be as many people as I can," says Frank Gorshin, who is appearing in Reno at Harrah's Headliner Room.

Friday night the impressionist was many people - not only in voice but in facial expressions, mannerisms and dialogue. He is undoubtedly one of the world's great impressionists.

Gorshin's impersonations of Peter Faulk, Lee J. Cobb, Alfred Hitchcock, Richard Widmark and Boris Karloff were superb. Even more entertaining was the story about losing his own identity because of his frequent impressions. Even when he is at home he gets up like Broderick Crawford, goes to breakfast as Claude Rains, tells his wife to do something like Burt Lancaster, makes love like Kirk Douglas, changes his sons' names like Bela Lugosi, gives him a bottle in the character of John Wayne and sings a lullaby like Richard Burton.

"I've become a mimicholic," Gorshin confesses as he clutches his throat and says he's coming down with somebody. "I'm catching a Lee Marvin," he diagnoses and then launches into an impersonation of the screen star.

In addition to his talents as a fine singing voice, he demonstrated his vocal ability on such selections as "For Once In My Life," "That's Life," "I Gotta Be Me," and songs from his Broadway show "Jimmy."

Appearing with Gorshin are Skiles and Henderson, The Maggie Banks Dancers and John Carleton and his orchestra round out the evening's entertainment.

County Hears 'Student Power' Helps Get Job Done At Nevada DMV

MINDEN- After hearing a host of protests, Douglas County Commissioners have approved plans for Nevada's biggest hotel, to be at Stateline.

Commissioners unanimously approved issuing a special use permit, which was sought by John Gianotti, director of community affairs for Harrah's.

Gianotti said Harrah's plans three high-rises, one 31 stories high and the others 25 stories, containing 1,600 rooms. The towers are to be adjacent to the casino.

Although no cost or timetable estimates were presented, Gianotti said economic factors require starting construction soon.

Commissioners noted the special use permit will have to go before the State Board of Health before construction can begin.

One commissioner noted he feels Ernest Gregory, of the health department, will not okay a building permit until plans are sanctioned by the bi-state Tahoe Regional Planning Agency.

Gianotti said he does not think Bill Harrah will want to wait until the bi-state agency is formed because there is no set time for its creation.

Among protests received was one from Herb Young, a Sierra Club representative and Douglas County resident.

Noting he can understand why Harrah wants to build a hotel - "to do something bigger and better" - Young said the plans would disregard wishes of the people of the United States.

Gianotti noted that Harrah does not want to damage Lake Tahoe. "Mr. Harrah's record stands and proves he has gone far beyond anything proposed for the basin."

University of Nevada Students Interested in Lake Tahoe and Wooster's Students Opposed to Pollution, the latter from a Reno high school, and Doctors' Wives of Washoe County entered protests against the high-rises.

Commissioner Harold Dayton Jr. said he has surveyed opinions of Lake Tahoe businessmen and most approve of the plans, if performed correctly.

Speaking of youthful protestors, Dayton noted that "these kids are against everything but the trees."

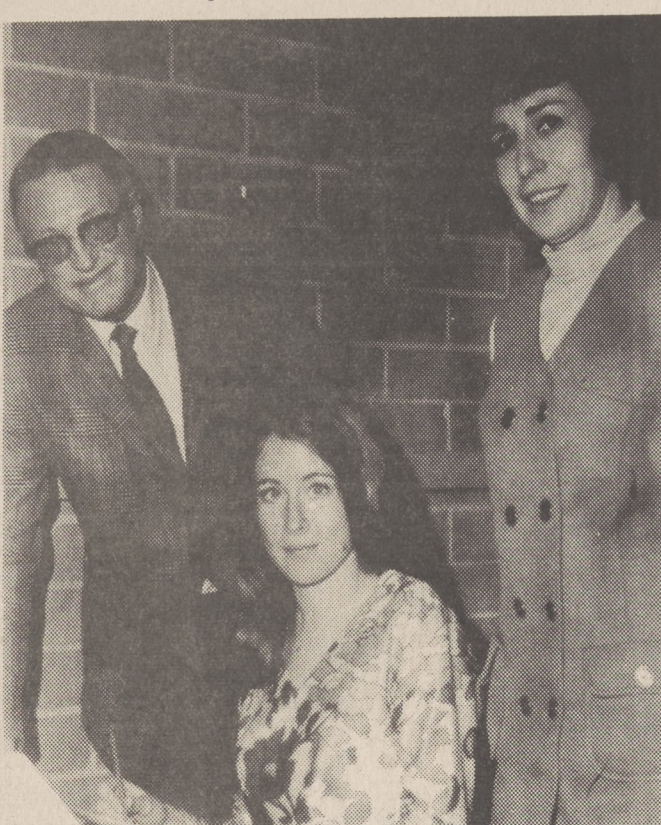

CARSON CITY - The big task of annually renewing an estimated 300,000 Nevada vehicle license registrations usually consumes the better part of any year.

But this year the job will be completed about the end of March and a department of motor vehicle spokesman cites two reasons why this will happen: (1) Student power; and (2) modern teleprocessing - computer equipment.

"One could not work effectively without the other," is the way Hale Bennett puts it. He is chief of the DMV's automation division.

Bennett says that vehicle renewal registration information is received electronically in Carson City from Branch offices throughout the state. Students operating typewriter-like video terminals consolidate and transmit necessary information to computer storage headquarters. The whole transaction now takes only minutes.

Although he has a lot of respect for his efficient, space-age equipment, Bennett says that "we're especially proud of the business-like way these high school youngsters operate this hardware."

REGISTRATION HELPER - James C. Bailey, director of Nevada Department of Motor Vehicles, and Mrs. Ramona Arnold, key-punch supervisor, check work of a Carson City High School senior operating electronic machinery handling approximately 300,000 vehicle registration renewals.

Regain Order Of Lord Cornwallis

LONDON (AP) - Members of the family of Lord Cornwallis, who surrendered to George Washington at Yorktown in 1781, have regained possession of the Order of the Garter decoration he received from George III.

The decoration, which had passed through various hands down the years, was sold at auction by its anonymous owner Wednesday for $1,800. A Cornwallis family group made the winning bid.

Cornwallis received the silver sash and velvet breast star of the order, highest in Britain, in 1786.

Then they were hired following conference with the state's personnel division. Mrs. Romona Arnold is their immediate supervisor.

"It took about one hour to train these students," Bennett recalls, adding, "results were amazing and they've been highly productive ever since. Right now they're processing between 7,000 and 10,000 license renewal forms daily."

Bennett added: "These boys and girls have helped us immeasurably. I long have been impressed with the way they took hold of this job, with their willingness to do a good job and for their ability and desire to stick to something they've started. They're all mighty good kids."

Student workers include Tim Sullivan, Susan Thurman, Sheri Russell, Margo Harris, Mike Lloyd, Peggy Glodowski, Lynne Bennett, Larry May, Ruth Brownwell, Joanne Forman and Karl Knefelkamp.

Housing Pinch: America Not Meeting Its Needs

WASHINGTON (AP) - A national housing crisis that long has plagued the poor is beginning to engulf middle class America as the need for housing outstrips production and prices spiral steadily upward.

At the same time, the rising costs and critical shortage of houses are intensifying the pressures that low-income persons must fight to find a decent place to live.

The government says 26 million new housing units are needed during the next 10 years. Current production is not even half that rate, and it is declining. But marriages - the formation of new families who'll need a place to live - are increasing rapidly.

The Associated Press investigated home buying to isolate the tangle of cost and other factors at work. Also evident, however, is the pressure the newer middle class housing miseries are exerting downward.

It works this way: Building costs and tight money make it harder for the upper-middle and upper classes to buy new homes. That, in turn, keeps the lower middle classes from buying the used houses which the wealthier would otherwise sell.

This creates more pressures on rental property, where vacancy rates are dropping and rents are increasing. In stair-step fashion, each income level is kept in relatively poorer housing, with the pressure mounting as the production gap increases.

With middle America increasingly feeling the housing sting, the crisis is getting priority attention from both public and private sectors. President Nixon referred Jan. 21 to "the crisis situation we are facing in the housing of our people" - but action that may eventually solve the shortage and blunt cost increases isn't any help to today's house hunters.

The housing crisis facing these and thousands of other families is a compound of cost and availability.

The 1968 Housing Act set a national goal of 26 million new units in 10 years. But by December, the annual rate of housing starts had fallen to 1.2 million.

This shortage boosts costs through the workings of supply and demand.

A battery of other cost factors is at work, too.

Associated Press interviews with buyers, builders, lenders, realtors, union officials and government planners from coast to coast pinpointed expense areas like these:

- Land values have skyrocketed. Example: in the Maryland suburbs of Washington, raw land prices have quadrupled in 10 years.

- Some union work rules stifle efforts at economy. Example: In San Francisco, a builder complains that union rules add $800 to the price of painting a single house.

- A national tangle of building codes haphazardly bars cost-saving new materials and methods. Example: In one Chicago suburb, a requirement that foundations be 12 inches thick instead of the standard 10 inches adds $320 to per-house costs.

- Government red tape brings expensive delays. Example: One builder says a four-week lag in Federal Housing Administration application approvals adds $85 to the costs of a house.

- Soaring construction wages are puffed higher by practices frowned upon even by some unions. Example: A West Coast drywall hanger makes $36,000 a year, and a roofer $100 a day, by working on a piecework rather than hourly basis.

- Costs of many materials are spiraling. Example: Cabinets prices at $303 in 1964 cost $642 in 1969. A garage door costing $95 then is $135 now.

- Most pervasive of all is tight money. Mortgage interest rates are nudging 10 per cent in some areas. Construction loan costs for builders have doubled.

And mortgage money is so scarce in some cities that lenders are collecting handsome incentives for making loans.

California builder Robert H. Grant calculates: "A man must earn $1,000 a month to buy a $30,000 home. If the cost of money was cheap, I could cut the price to $27,000 and sell to a man earning $800 a month."

This kind of squeeze is taking housing out of the price bracket of many Americans faster than their incomes increase.

In 1965, half of the 575,000 new noncustom-built homes sold for $20,000 or less. In 1969, less than one-quarter of the 435,000 such homes were in that price range. By contracts, more than one-third of last year's new home sales were for $30,000 or compared with only 13 per cent four years earlier.

Inflation gets much of the blame for rising prices but the same inflation allows some families to move quickly up the housing ladder because they can get such a good price for their old home.

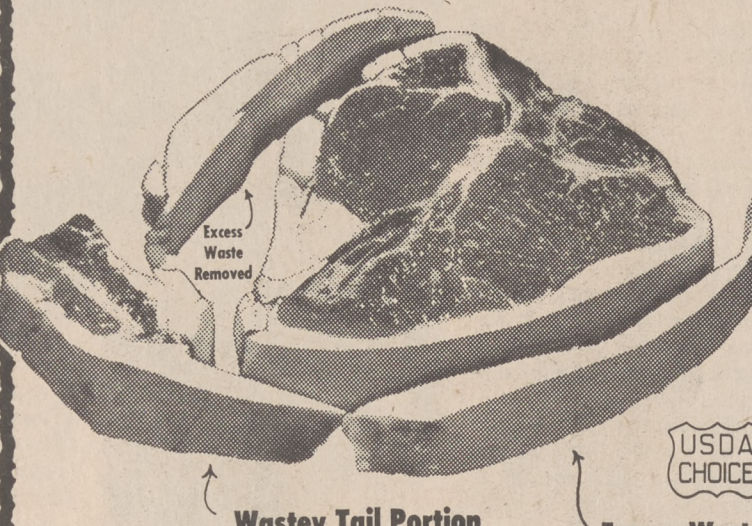

A northern Virginia man who moved into a new house four months ago recently found similar houses on his block selling for $40,000 or $8,000 more than he paid. Buyers apparently were trying to beat Virginia legislation that would erase an 8 per cent mortgage interest ceiling.

But most people can't afford a $40,000 house. In fact, one congressional study showed half of all Americans cannot afford payments on a $20,000 mortgage.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) - Remarks a columnist gets tired of hearing - or overhearing:
"What else do you do besides write those little pieces for the paper. Really? Nothing at all?"
"When you finish your column, dear, don't forget to take out the rest of the garbage."

"Where do you get most of your ideas - from old copies of the Police Gazette?"
"I think he used to write funnier before his hair started falling out."

"One of your columns I read last week really struck home with me. I wish I could recall now just what it was about, but whatever it was, it sure seemed to me at the time to hit the nail on the head."

"One of the nice things about your job, I guess, is that on the days you can't get by on brains you can usually get by on brass."

"Be careful what you say to him, or you may be surprised to find it in the paper tomorrow."

"I can't tell whether he's thinking or sleeping, but if he doesn't brush those hot cigar ashes off his vest, he's going to go up in smoke."

"You mean that's him sitting over there, the guy with the vacant look staring up at the ceiling? You must be kidding. I didn't think columnists looked like that."

"What is it that for every hour you spend at your typewriter you spend four hours at the water cooler and the pencil sharpener? Wouldn't you get more done if you tried it the other way around?"

"I don't mean to be critical of you, dear, but if you can't get around to writing the great American Novel, couldn't you just sit down some afternoon and turn out a nice good dirty book - so we could at least afford to send the kids to a decent school?"

"I liked your piece today, but it was a lot like the one you wrote the day before yesterday, wasn't it?"

"Well, all in all, I guess it beats working for a living doesn't it, Bill?"

Pope Applauded

ROME (AP) - Pope Paul VI says his visit to the North American Pontifical College was "one of the most beautiful and fullest moments of our apostolic ministry."

The 73-year-old Pontiff said Mass Sunday for 250 American seminarians and priests at their Rome residence college. The students stood in their pews and applauded as he left smiling and blessing them.

"You are the sons of a great people, strong and generous. You are in a wonderful position... to bring salvation and happiness to humanity," the Pope said in a brief sermon.

Tight Money: The Effects Of That Invisible National Force

TUSTIN, Calif. (AP) — Walk into a $30,495 four-bedroom home at Tustin Meadows and you'll see vaulted ceilings in the living room and parks through the windows — hallmarks of California living.

What you won't see is $3,265 that tight money has added to the price of the house — but it's there, too, and it's the hallmark of high interest rates and money scarcity.

The effects of tight money are everywhere in the housing field: They increased the builder's costs, boost monthly payments if the buyer can find a mortgage, and make it harder to sell a house.

Virtually all these tight money costs come home to roost on the buyer of a house.

Robert H. Grant, developer of 900-home Tustin Meadows, located in Tustin, Calif., between Disneyland and the Western White House, outlined how tight money added $3,265 on to the price.

On the house, he has to give eight points to the lender to get a government — insured mortgage for the buyer. Each point is 1 per cent of the mortgage, so that cost alone could reach $2,400.

The rate of interest for construction loans has gone from 5 3/4 per cent to 10 per cent for Grant. On the $30,495 home, that means an additional cost of $565.

Holding land for that house during the year of acquiring, planning and building costs $300 more said Grant, because land loans are 10 per cent instead of the former 6 per cent.

Thus, $3,265 of the price is directly attributable to the higher costs of tight money.

A study by the House Banking Committee released this month found that half of all American families could not afford payments on a $20,000 mortgage. "Virtually all moderate income families have been priced out of the housing market," said committee chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex.

Viewed another way, a family taking on a $20,000, 25-year mortgage would pay $42,418.37 over the life of the loan if the interest rate were 7 per cent. But if they take the same loan at 9 per cent, they'll pay $50,399.41 — a difference of $7,981.04.

What is it that makes money for buildings and mortgages so scarce?

Basically, the Federal Reserve Board has restricted the money supply as a means of fighting inflation. The theory is that if less money is available, the demands for goods and services will decline and prices will tend to stabilize.

But the demand has not declined. Business and industry wants money for expansion. Consumers want it for credit purchases. Home buyers want it for mortgages. As competition for loans has sharpened, interest rates have soared.

Since home mortgages traditionally pay the lender a lower rate of return than most other types of loans, less and less money has been going into home mortgages.

Another factor is involved, too. Basically, the money for home mortgages comes from a pool of capital made up mostly of America's savings-bank and savings and loan association deposits, for example.

But this pool of capital has been shrinking. Instead of putting their savings in bank deposits earning perhaps 5 per cent, more and more people are putting the savings in other investments, like short-term government securities, which have climbed recently to 8 per cent interest and higher, but are just as safe.

As a result of these economic pressures, the home buyer must pay higher interest rates on his mortgage. And to get the loan, he must make a bigger down payment.

Many lenders say they can still make 20 per cent down payment conventional loans — but some report down payment requirements are inching toward 25 or 30 per cent.

Federal Housing Administration — guaranteed loans on homes selling for more than $20,000 still require a down payment of $950 plus 25 per cent of the excess of the purchase price over $20,000. Thus, a $30,000 house would require a down payment of $3,450, or just under 12 per cent.

In many states, home mortgages have run up against usury ceilings in state law. In early 1969, for example, mortgage money in Maryland virtually disappeared because state law allowed no more than 6 per cent interest. Money flowed again when the limit was raised to 8 per cent — but dried up once more when the interest rise bumped into that ceiling.

Another legal interest ceiling that has dried up money is the federal limit on interest for loans guaranteed by FHA and VA.

During most of 1969, lenders making an FHA or VA loan could not charge more than 7 1/2 per cent interest. This was below market conditions, so lenders charged points of incentive to make the loan.

The seller is required to pay these points. Each point equals a one-time fee of 1 per cent of the mortgage.

To entice more money into FHA and VA loans, the government boosted the interest ceiling to 8 1/2 per cent in January.

The government has taken other steps to try to pump more money into home mortgages.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board increased its advances to federal savings and loan associations by $4 billion in 1969. It also cut the percentage of assets the associations must keep in reserve.

The board currently requires associations to keep 5 1/2 per cent of their assets in reserve. But some keep much more.

The privately incorporated Federal National Mortgage Association, nicknamed Fannie Mae, and the government — operated Government National Mortgage Association — Ginnie Mae — already trying to keep money pumped into the mortgage field by purchasing batches of mortgages from lending institutions. This gives lenders new funds.

Federal regulatory agencies have also tried to lure money into mortgage markets by raising the interest rates which banks, and savings and loans can pay depositors. This, they hope, would bring more money to these institutions for mortgage use.

But the bulk of these policies have the effect of only shuffling around the existing supply of money. The Federal Reserve System, through its discount and reserve policies, controls the volume of the money supply. And the Federal Reserve Board has believed that tight money is necessary to stifle inflation.

There is speculation that the Federal Reserve Board will loosen money under its new chairman, Arthur M. Burns. Any easing would provide some degree of help to housing. But if a loosening of money and drop in interest comes, it would almost certainly be far more gradual than has been the interest climb of recent months.

Prince Of A Guy

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Prince Charles won the biggest laugh of the show when he fluffed his lines in a satirical review at Cambridge University.

"This doesn't happen on the BBC," said the 21-year-old student heir to the throne, "I don't know what the hell comes next."

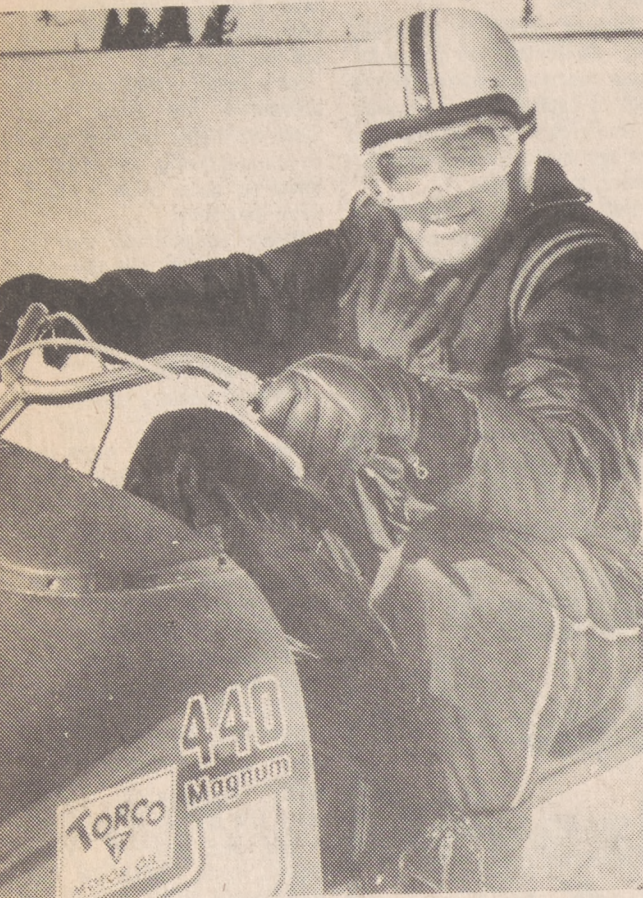

The future king was dressed in a gas mask and blue rubber flippers for his role as a television weather forecaster. The fluff occurred in a preview showing Sunday of "Quiet Flows the Don," which satirizes food traditions and university dons.

Easy On Drug Violations

CARSON CITY - Of 160 persons convicted in 1969 in Nevada of violating narcotic and dangerous drug laws, 30 received prison sentences.

For the others, 107 received probation sentences, 15 got terms in county jail, and was fined, one was fined by dismissal and six sentences are pending.

Of the 160 convictions, Washoe County led the state with 78.

Clark County was next with 49. These figures were released by Philip Hannifin, state narcotics chief.

Expressing surprise that only 30 persons went to prison, Hannifin said, "I don't know the answer. Somewhere they are not being processed through the courts."

Hannifin noted the figures show that 67 per cent of persons convicted were given probation. Only five of the 42 persons under 21 years of age who were convicted of violating marijuana laws went to prison, while 34 were given probation.

He said 22 of the 33 persons arrested for sale of marijuana had their original charges reduced and 41 per cent of the total 160 persons convicted had their original charges reduced.

Former major leaguer Woddie Held, who recently won a marathon cross country event in Idaho, and Green Bay Packer Doug Hart are all running for Arctic Cat.

Polaris will have a team of nine top drivers including Bob Eastman, who heads up the racing team and competes when he can.

Rupp will have two-time Indy "500" winner Rodger Ward driving for the money and Speed Queen Paula Murphy will give it a go in the Powder Puff Division.

Two Incline Village residents by the names of Ella Mae and Dorothy Mercer have also entered the run for the black and white flag. Ella Mae will be competing for Polaris, while her sister will be driving for Arctic Cat. Both are highly favored to win.

The Cal-Neva entry headed by sports car veteran Merle Brennan, is also favored to finish in the money. Merle Brennan and his teammate will ride Polaris.

The first race is scheduled to get underway on Friday, February 27, at 9:00 a.m. on the Speed Oval directly behind the Kings Castle. Races will continue through the day until sundown. Saturday will see the Main events get going at 9:30 a.m. (approximately) with various demonstrations scheduled between events.

The University of Nevada at Reno will have their Brass Band play the Star Spangled Banner and the Canadian National Anthem before the start of racing on Saturday and Sunday. The United States Marine Corp will be the Color Guard for the two days.

Royce Anderson, son of Ponderosa Ranch owner Bill Anderson, will lead a parade of champions on Saturday and again on Sunday.

Gov. Paul Laxalt will be on hand Sunday to get the Grand Prix events under way and to hand out many of the beautiful trophies after the race.

Bleacher seating for 3,000 fans have been provided at a cost of $12,000 for all three days. These tickets may be purchased at Kings Castle Hotel or from any local Chamber of Commerce, including Reno.

Thursday night, after all the official registration is completed, "Miss U.S. Snowmobile" will be crowned in the Casino Lounge of the Kings Castle Hotel. There will be four girls from around the United States competing for this title along with "Miss Incline" who will be selected Wednesday night. A $1000 wardrobe, donated by Ski-Doo, and other gifts will go to the lucky winner who will reign over all the festivities.

The $50,000 Kings Castle Grand Prix is under way and from any angle looks like a sure winner!

EARS OF MUSIC - Christopher Hewett, playing a concert violinist who is also one of a company of spies for the Continental army, is visited by Rudolph, the spy ring's dog, in "The Boston Spy Party," an American in Rainbow special dealing with the breaking of the British blockade of Boston in 1776, to be color-cast on the NBC Television Network Saturday, Feb. 28.

HOPE FOR JONES - The Son of Paleface returns to haunt Tom Jones . . . of course it's the indestructible Bob Hope. They'll be together on "This Is Tom Jones" on Thursday, March 5 on the ABC Television Network.

Kirby Appears On Sports Show

Daryle Lamonica hunts royal red stag in Argentina, Redd Foxx and George Kirby fish on a party boat off the coast of California and Grits Gresham works with pointers and setters in Alabama on ABC's "The American Sportsman" Sunday, March 1.

Sportscaster Curly Gowdy hosts the award-winning outdoor series.

Lamonica, outstanding quarterback of the Oakland Raiders, joins guide Jorge Verono on the stag hunt in Lanin National Park on the shore of Lake Lacar in San Martin de Los Andes. The snow-capped peaks of the Andes Mountains, rising 22,000 feet, form the background for the famous lake district of Argentina.

The park is located in one of the most popular resort areas in South America, famous for its boating, fishing and horseback riding in the summer and skiing in the winter.

Game was introduced shortly after the turn of the century - red stag and fallow deer from the forests of Europe, axis deer and black buck from India, and wild boar from Hungary and Poland.

Many years ago, royal families bred stags possessing 12 points or more on their vast estates for their own hunting. These magnificently antlered specimens became known as royal stags.

In order to qualify as a point, tradition dictates that the projection must be long enough to hang a hunting horn on by its loop.

These majestic beasts are hunted only during the mating season - period of about two weeks.

Comedian George Kirby, who will be appearing at Harrah's Tahoe March 6, 7, and 8 and Redd Foxx enter the fun-filled atmosphere of the party boat Chubasco, captained by Lee Palm. The large, air-conditioned fishing boat provides the opportunity for many people to fish for a wide variety of salt-water fish.

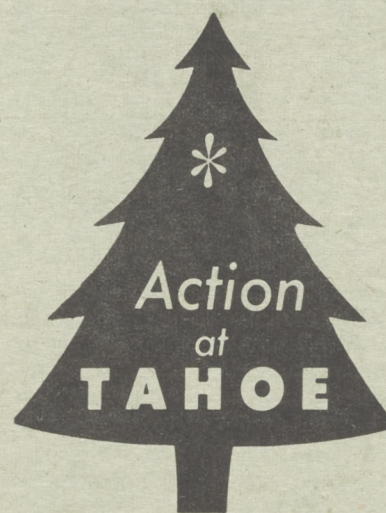

Traveling down the coast from San Diego as far south as Mexico, the fishermen hook everything from barracuda to bonita (a smaller member of the dolphin family) and whitefish.

The party boat is the most popular and well-known method of deep-sea fishing. Foxx and Kirby, both nightclub and television performers, engage in re-partee which evokes constant merriment among the other fishermen on the trip.

Outdoor writer Grits Gresham travels to the Maytag Estate, a plantation of 21 square miles in Union Springs, Ala., for the finals of the grand national of field trial meets, the National Shooting Dog Championship, an annual event created by Lewis Maytag.

The pointers and setters in the competition are different from regular hunting dogs, possessing exceptional stamina and spirit. They are judged not by the number of birds they flush but on the distance they cover, which is so great they have to be followed on horseback by the judges.

A San Francisco restaurateur has put into effect a highly original steak dinner idea. The customer selects his own portion of steak. His check is then figured at the rate per ounce of the portion he selects. In addition to the steak, the dinner includes luscious green salad, choice of dressing, Idaho baked potato with sour cream, butter, chives and bacon crumbs, french fried onion rings, relish bowl, and all the coffee you wish.

Cartoonist Subject Of TV Special

Cartoonist Al Capp, who has become a controversial lecturer on the college circuit, will be profiled and analyzed by his admirers and detractors in "This Is Al Capp," which will be colorcast on "NBC Experiment in Television" Sunday, March 1 (5-6 p.m. PST) on the NBC Television Network.

Capp, creator of "Li'l Abner," one of the world's most popular cartoon strips, has become a serious critic of young people's behavior, especially in the colleges. His blunt remarks about them have angered liberal circles and delighted the conservatives. Capp gives scores of lectures a year at colleges for what he describes as high fees. "I'm the most expensive speaker on the college circuit," he says.

Among the prominent people who will comment in the program on Capp and his ideas are columnist William F. Buckley, producer David Susskind, actor Douglas Fairbanks Jr., cartoonist Milton Caniff, art critic John Canaday, realist editor Paul Krassner. A panel of Columbia University students also will participate.

Some of Mr. Capp's quotes follow: "A punk who's in college eight months tells experienced educators what to do;" "when you go to a department store you don't beat up the clerk if you don't like the merchandise, you go to another store;" "about 95 per cent of the kids are perfectly decent. They don't protest by cracking dean's skulls;" "when you encourage mobs, the mobs destroy."

THIS IS AL CAPP - Al Capp creator of the popular cartoon "Li'l Abner," and a controversial lecturer on the college circuit, will be profiled pro and con on "This Is Al Capp" on "NBC Experiment in Television" Sunday, March 1 on the NBC Television Network.

Davidson Show Back For Second Weekend

Coming through with an inspired, vigorous performance, singer John Davidson made his Harrah's Tahoe debut last weekend a standout one.

Davidson played to capacity houses each of the three nights, satisfying South Shore Room tablers with a well-balanced performance.

The young singer will again offer two shows each night in the 750-seat theatre-restaurant this weekend.

Burgett Opens 9th Year At Harrah's

When singer Jim Burgett opened for three weeks last Thursday night, Feb. 19, in Harrah's Stateline Cabaret, he began his ninth year of entertaining in the Tahoe lounge.

Following a modest beginning in the old American Legion Hall in South Lake Tahoe, Burgett signed with Harrah's in 1962.

The marriage has been successful for both sides ever since.

A resident of South Lake Tahoe, Burgett played at Harrah's Reno and Lake Tahoe 22 weeks last year - more than any other entertainer - and is scheduled for 19 more weeks this year.

With his youthful, free-wheeling style and exciting, contemporary sound, Burgett pulls capacity crowds into the lounge each night he performs.

Burgett attempts to select material suitable for all ages. He doesn't recognize any generation gap, remarking during his last visit to Tahoe, "Older people are getting younger every day."

Enthusiasm to entertain and an easily grasped warmth for his audience are attributes which have made Burgett a strong regular.

"My objective is to get everybody to relax, to forget about their troubles," explains Burgett, "An entertainer must not isolate himself on stage."

Burgett labels Mike Coulter his "right hand man." Coulter has been with him for over three years, backing him on organ and sax, as well as supplying change of pace comedy routines.

Also in the group are Eloy Armerdariz, organ, trumpet, arranger, sax; Ray Esquivel, tenor sax, alto; Dave Nunez, bass, tenor sax; Frank Lerma, guitar, tenor sax; and Robert Chase, drums.

'Bride's' Secretary

The script of "How Dry We Are," airing on the ABC Television Network's "Here Come the Brides" Friday, March 6, is the first for Roberta Goldstone as a writer. Bobbi, as her friends call her, is the secretary to the series' executive producer, Bob Claver, and has been for the last seven years.

Ventriloquist team Aaron and Freddie and the singing Kane Triplets, along with the Brian Farnon Orchestra, round out the bill.

Davidson selected songs to bridge the generation gap opening night, Feb. 20. The diversified material was blended smoothly and professionally, making for 90 minutes of high-fashion entertainment.

His "Hello Young Lovers" turned into "Something," "What a Day for a Daydream," "I Will Wait for You," "I'll Never Fall in Love Again" and "Cold."

Then the Columbia recording artist picked up the guitar and accompanied himself in a medley that embraced "Kind of a Hush," "Until Its Time for Me to Go," "If I Were a Carpenter" and "What Is a Woman?"

This led to a banjo medley "Sugar, Sugar," "Proud Mary," "Everybody's Talkin'," "Let the Sunshine In," and "Get into this World."

There were other songs to round out a pleasant evening of outstanding entertainment by one of the brightest stars today.

George Kirby - impressionist, comic, raconteur, singer, pianist, and dialectician - takes over the South Shore Room stage March 6-7.

KIRBY COMES NEXT - Comic-singer-dancer-impressionist George Kirby will entertain in Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room one weekend only, March 6-7.

WEEKEND HEADLINER

Singer John Davidson completes his two-weekend engagement in Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room this Friday and Saturday night, Feb. 27-28. Offering a well-balanced performance, Davidson has something in his musical repertoire to please everyone.

Jimmy Durante has a tip for owners of color television sets. The star of "Jimmy Durante Presents the Lennon Sisters Hour," which airs Saturdays, 9:30-10:30 PM, PST, on the ABC Television Network, advises: "Just remember when you're adjusting your set that my eyes are Mediterranean Blue."

JUNIPER TRIO - The Promises, three pretty girls with a wide range of musical stylings, are currently appearing at the Sahara-Tahoe Hotel and Casino. The singing group comes to the Sahara-Tahoe following a three-month engagement at the Hotel Sahara in Las Vegas. Also in the Juniper Lounge is singer Frankie Fanelli and The Jets.

'Mister Jerico' Feature On ABC Movie Of Week

"Mister Jerico," a sophisticated comedy-adventure in which a con man tries to outwit a crooked millionaire, is the film feature presented on the ABC Television Network's "Movie of the Week" Tuesday, March 3.

Patrick Macnee, who starred in ABC's "The Avengers," heads the cast as swindler Dudley Jerico. Also starring are comic Marty Allen as Dudley's partner, Wally; Connie Stevens as a girl who becomes involved in the shenanigans, and Herbert Lom as the unscrupulous millionaire. The film, set on the historic island of Malta, opens with Dudley and Wally plotting to outwit and rob corrupt Victor Rosso, whose only vulnerable spot is his ambition to own the twin of his famous Gemini diamond.

Dudley obtains a perfect copy of the twin which he offers to sell to Rosso. During a burglary, Dudley switches the fake for the real diamond, but before he can sell Rosso his own diamond, the millionaire informs him that someone has called from Paris offering to sell the twin.

Meanwhile, Dudley discovers that the diamond he burgled is paste and returns to Rosso's home for another try. He is almost caught in the attempt, but at the last moment is rescued from danger by Rosso's secretary, Susan.

When the second stone also proves to be paste, Dudley concludes that the Paris caller must have gotten to Rosso's house before him. Amid the confusion over fake and real gems, Dudley falls in love with Susan, unmasking his competitor and comes to grips with Rosso in a hair-raising car chase atop the 600-foot high Maltese cliffs.

Hackett Plans Sahara Shows

Comedy genius Buddy Hackett has fallen in love again only it isn't the usual Hollywood story. Buddy and his family have fallen in love with the Lake Tahoe area in general and the Sahara-Tahoe in particular, so what could be more natural than his coming up to the picturesque resort for a couple of days.

Similar to his special "for swingers only" early morning shows at Hotel Sahara in Las Vegas, Hackett is set for two weekends at the Sahara-Tahoe. On March 7 and March 14, Buddy will do two shows at 8 p.m. and midnight and it looks like strictly a sell-out situation.

On March 7, Buddy is bringing neighbor - friend Jan Murray along for some super dual comedy and the sketches should be hilarious. A major weekly magazine recently completed a story on the experiences of Hackett and Murray during their recent Las Vegas engagement.

Hackett has a home in Las Vegas and Murray was playing another hotel. Both wives were in the east so the two comedians stayed together in the house for a week and the story on their cooking attempts and housekeeping efforts are hysterical.

In any event, it looks like two weekends of super fun at Hotel Sahara - Tahoe with Buddy Hackett and the best bet is to make your reservations early.

Napa Valley Setting For Film

Although only a few hundred miles from Hollywood, the Napa Valley wine country where "Hunters Are for Killing," the Cinema Center 100 motion picture, was filmed, has been all but ignored by location-hungry film makers.

The area, in the foothills of the rugged Sierra Nevada, includes abandoned mansions once used as gangster hideaways, sleepy villages with their tiny bus stations, dusty country roads and a sheriff's substation, interspersed with the magnificent homes of wealthy vintners.

The grape growers in this and two contiguous valleys, produce 70 per cent of all the California table wine sold throughout the world.

"Hunters Are for Killing," which was produced for initial exhibition in the United States on television, will be presented on "CBS Thursday Night Movies" March 12 in color on the CBS Television Network.

Its stars include Burt Reynolds, Melvyn Douglas, Martin Balsam, Suzanne Pleshette and Larry Storch.

SAHARA SHOWMAN - Comedian Buddy Hackett has been set for two special Sahara-Tahoe appearances, March 7 and 14 in the High Sierra Theater. On March 7, Hackett will bring along friend and fellow comedian Jan Murray. On March 14, the super comedian will introduce lovely Tereasa Graves, a member of the "Laugh-In" family and a fine singer as proven in her tour with the Bob Hope Vietnam Christmas show.

Butera's Shows Never The Same Twice

Sam Butera is a powerful attraction wherever he goes for several distinctive reasons. High among these is his propensity for change. "The thing about our show is that it is never the same," stresses the hard-working singer and saxist, who opened Feb. 19 for three weeks in Harrah's Stateline Cabaret along with the Witnesses.

HE'S A SWINGER - Singer-saxist Sam Butera is currently blowing high-fashion fun and entertainment from his sax in Harrah's Stateline Cabaret, where he and the Witnesses will cavort through March 11.

Adds Butera, "We constantly change. We don't know what we're going to do next. If you see our show only once, you still haven't really seen all of it."

Versatility, authority, looseness and a knack for creating a comradery between entertainer and audience are other big plusses, along with change, which have made Butera a consistent top draw.

"We don't like to dilly-dally," said Butera to the audience opening night, following a blast through "Spinning Wheel" and "Just Help Yourself."

During his 60-minute turn Butera connected beautifully with a solo sax interpretation of "Exodus," and also touched all four bases with a vigorous offering of "Down on the Corner."

Bassist Rolly Dee, who has been at Butera's side for over a dozen years, showcased a well-trained, strong voice with his version of "Raindrops Keep Fallin' On My Head."

Dee later sang "I Left My Heart in San Francisco" like it has never been sung before, or ever be sung again. His nonsensical translation made a shambles not only of the Bennett tearjerker, but also of the audience.

Morgan Thomas, another longtime Butera mainstay with 10 years on the circuit, got in his innings via the sax, trumpet and trombone.

Thomas relinquished the brass temporarily for a perceptive, warm rendition of "Didn't We?" Its obvious from the outset drummer Jimmy Vincent knows his way around the skins, driving home rhythm with adroit stickwork.

Humorously well done were Vincent impressions of Walter Brennan, Festus, Marcus Welby, a helicopter, a tube of toothpaste, Mandrake the Magician, and a myriad of other people and things.

Vincent has been with Butera now for eight years. Little Richie Varola has logged four years while Rondo James arrived last year. Actor Don Ameche, well-known for his role of Alexander Graham Bell, couldn't get away from the Bell System even by turning director. As he made his TV directorial debut on NBC-TV's "Julia" recently, he discovered that 75 per cent of the dialogue took place on the telephone.

Singing Debate

Anyone walking by the set of NBC-TV's "Julia" recently could have mistaken the show for "Sing Along with Mitch." The crew was singing "Maryland, My Maryland," "Oh Tannenbaum," and "Genevieve, Sweet Genevieve" to settle a debate over whether the tunes were the same.

Can't Get Away

Appearances are set for the Yankee Clipper in Santa Barbara, eight weeks at the Sands, five days at the Loner's Club in Dallas and two weeks at Al Hirt's Pierce 600 in New Orleans. In between the group will tape segments for the Dean Martin and Bob Hope shows, with another appearance on the Della Reese show still in the hopper.
